Fuel stays out of GST, not right time to get in

GST Council decides against bringing petrol and diesel under the regime; compensation to states to end in July 2022

ANURADHA SHUKLA @Lucknow

THE first in-person GST Council meeting in two years held here on Friday decided against bringing petrol and diesel under the regime as members felt this is "not the right time" for such a step. The proposal was included in the agenda of the meeting following a Kerala High Court directive.

"In terms of the recent directions of the Hon'ble High Court of Kerala, the issue of whether specified petroleum products should be brought within the ambit of GST was placed for consideration before the Council. After due deliberation, the Council was of the view that it is not appropriate to do so, at least at this stage," Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said after the meeting.

Meanwhile, in a big disappointment to states, the GST Council also ruled out extending the timeframe for compensation to states for their revenue loss due to switching over to GST from the earlier indirect tax regime. According to the GST Act, states will be compensated for five years from the GST rollout on July 1, 2017 till June 30, 2022. While the compensation payout to states will end in June next year, the compensation cess will continue to be collected till March 2026 to repay back-to-back loans taken to fund state compensation.

Justifying the move not to extend the compensation period, Sitharaman said the revenue neutral rate at the time of implementing GST was 15.5%, but the actual collection is at 11.6% due to various exemptions and reductions that were implemented later on. The GST Council, which is headed by the Union Finance Minister, also decided to exempt some life-saving drugs, including cancer medicine from GST. P13

K'TAKA SAYS NO TO PETROL, DIESEL UNDER GST

The Karnataka GST team, at the 45th GST Meeting at Lucknow on Friday, urged the Centre not to include petrol and diesel under GST for now and to extend the GST compensation for another five years. Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman did not commit herself to the demand on fuels, but agreed to set up two panels -- to study tax restructuring; and to analyse IT systems for better enforcement. Incomplete project to be given to buyers: Court tells builder

In a first of its kind ruling, RERA court asks buyers to complete the work on their own

S. LALITHA@Bengaluru

FOR the first time in the State, a Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) court on Friday launched a forensic audit and ordered that the builder hand over the incomplete project to the buyers for completion. The project in question, Unishare Spatio', a 14-storeyed, 235-unit project located off Bannerghatta Road, which has remained incomplete since February 2017, will now be handed over to the buyers' association.

It also sets a precedent for countless other real estate projects in which builders have left the buyers high and dry.

Forensic audit refers to a stock-taking exercise carried out physically by a team in which the amount paid by the buyers for the purchase of their homes, is tallied with the progress of work.

The RERA court had earlier on July 26 cancelled the licence of the builder--Unishare--under Section 7 of the RERA Act. A source said, "The step to revoke the licence and hand it over to the buyers' society to complete it on their own is the first verdict of its kind in the State. It offers the much needed hope to over 3 lakh property buyers in the State who have paid huge sums of money to different builders and are waiting for years for their homes to be handed over."

> A window period of 60 days has been given to the buyers to take over the project. We will be hiring a contractor to complete the job for us
> Lokesh Reddy, Member, Unishare Spatio Owners' Association

Welcoming the verdict on behalf of the 165 individuals who have already paid up to 75% of the cost for their homes, ranging between ₹60 lakh and ₹90 lakh to Unishare, Lokesh Reddy of Unishare Spatio Owners' Association told TNIE, "A window period of 60 days has been given to the buyers to take over the project. We will be hiring a contractor to complete the job for us. We plan to mobilise resources among the buyers only as most of them still have to pay a portion of the amount, and for overheads, we have decided to pool in the resources." The compensation that the builder needs to pay will come in due course of time," he added.

The project began in 2013 by Unishare which has 14 other projects in the City including 2 BHK and 3 BHK homes and other amenities. "Since February 2017, the builder has abandoned it, and not a brick has been moved. We have been doing our best to reach out to them but we get evasive answers. The builder shifted office from Seshadripuram and is never available at the new office," Reddy added. The Association filed a case in October 2020 against the builder in the RERA court.

One of the sites at MKS Layout awaits khata certificate

BDA stops khata issuance to plot owners

S. LALITHA@Bengaluru

HOUSE and site owners of Bangalore Development Authority's MKS Layout at Doddakallasandra, off Kanakapura Road, have been running from pillar to post to get their khata certificates for the last two years. The local BDA office at Banashankari has stopped issuing them stating it had received directions from the Urban Development Department (UDD) to do so, a claim that the latter has denied in writing to a Right to Information (RTI) application.

The layout was meant for BDA C and D category employees in 2006 -2007 with two phases created for 759 sites-- one at Doddakallasandra and another at Linga Devanahalli.

Harish K, an HR professional in a private firm is among those 15 people who are desperately waiting for their Katha certificates. "I bought a 30x40 sqft site in 2019 for ₹96 lakh. On November 2, 2019, I applied for khata for my site after completing the registration process. I am yet to get the certificate. The same applies to others too."

"After providing a home loan, banks give only a maximum of 18 months time to begin construction. Now, the bank has converted it into a personal loan and we are charged 18% interest instead of 8%," he added.

Revenue Officer, BDA, Banashankari, Gnanyesh told TNIE, "I joined recently and was told about oral orders from the UDD. I have forwarded the files to the secretary for clearance. If I get clearance, I will issue khatas to the homeowners."

HC permits pvt schools to collect fees with 15% reduction

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has permitted the managements of private unaided schools to collect annual fees from students as fixed under the Karnataka Education Act for the academic year 2019-20, but by providing a reduction of 15 per cent on the amount in lieu of unutilised facilities during the relevant period.

However, it is open to the managements to offer further concession to students, or to evolve a different pattern for getting concession over and above the amount after the 15-per cent reduction, the court added.

Justice R Devdas passed the order while disposing of a batch of petitions filed by private unaided schools against the order passed by the State Government restraining them from collecting fees for the academic year 2020-21, in excess of 70 per cent of the tuition fees, in view of Covid-19. According to the order pronounced on Thursday, the school managements should not debar any student from attending either online or physical classes on account of non-payment of fees, arrears/outstanding fees including installments, and should not withhold examination results. This apart, if any individual request is made by a parent or ward, who is finding it difficult to remit annual fees for 2020-21 in terms of this order, the court asked the school managements to consider such representations on case-to-case basis sympathetically.

It also made it clear that this arrangement will not affect fee collection for 2021-22, as is payable by students of the concerned school as and when it becomes due and payable.

The schools managements should not withhold the name of any student for the ensuing Board examination for Classes 10 and 12 on grounds of non-payment of fee/arrears for the said period, if any, on obtaining undertaking of the concerned parents/students, the court added.

Provide Braille textbooks in 15 days: HC tells state

BENGALURU: The Karnataka High Court on Friday directed the State Government to provide Braille textbooks to visually impaired Kannada medium students of classes 1 to 10 within 15 days, and file a compliance report. A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after hearing public interest litigation filed in 2019 by the Karnataka chapter of the National Federation of the Blind. In response to the petition on the non-availability of textbooks in Braille, the State had, on March 18, 2020, assured the court that such textbooks will be available from the next academic year. However, the textbooks were not supplied.

Metro trains to run 6 am to 10 pm from today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OWING to the popular public demand and the near normalcy being restored in different sectors, the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) has announced that it would extend operations of its trains from 6 am to 10 pm beginning from Saturday

According to an official release, the last train will depart from the four terminal stations of Baiyappanahalli, Kengeri, Nagasandra and Silk Institute at 9.30 pm. The release also added that during weekends and general holidays, the frequency of Metro trains may be increased or decreased depending on the patronage.

"During weekdays peak hour services at frequency up to 5 minutes and non-peak hour services up to 10 minute intervals will be available between Baiyappanahalli and Mysuru Road sections on the Purple Line and between Yelachenahalli and Nagasandra stations of the Green Line," the release said. However, on the newly added Metro stretches under Phase-I launched this year (Yelachenahalli to Silk Institute and Mysuru Road to Kengeri), the frequency will only be 10 minutes throughout the operating hours. Hence, from Kengeri and Silk Institute, there will be a 10-minute gap between trains.

The release also added that during weekends and general holidays, the frequency of Metro trains may be increased or decreased depending on the patronage.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

18th September: Saturn, or Shani, ruler of Saturday, is a serious star. Some people think this is a day to have fun. Yet we need to work in order to enjoy ourselves. Saturn's message is that if we want to play sport, become an artist or even learn to dance, we must knuckle down and acquire real skills. This is the lesson of Saturday!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You can follow your dreams and take one further step into enabling a special fantasy to become a reality. You may also be tempted to cancel a social engagement, perhaps because a quiet life suddenly begins to look more attractive. Think twice, though, because you might regret it!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There's still a lot of pressure around, more than you're ready for. But what seems to be increasingly important is that you devote more time to social gatherings. A new acquaintance could soon become one of those special friends with whom you share a deep emotional bond.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Professional Geminians will be preoccupied with career ambitions, but those of you taking time off should involve yourselves in leisure pursuits which are competitive and could lead to status and prestige. You want to be recognised for your real skills - that's no less than you deserve.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Long-distance contacts are important so, if you are travelling today you should be well in touch with your stars and, if you're not, go ahead and make plans for the future. Keep an eye on legal questions, by the way, for you don't want to overlook vital details while you have the chance.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
About of extravagance and self-indulgence should be well-deserved, so don't hold yourself back. You know better than anyone that you deserve a reward after all your recent struggles. Perhaps, in time, other people will realise it as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You are bound to be pulled in two directions emotionally, but if you realise exactly why your desires are so contradictory, you'll be well-prepared for the personal changes that are on the way. Oh, and don't blame other people for problems of your own making!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Stay busy and make sure that other people are quite happy with your every move. There seem to be one or two chores which have unfortunately been left undone, and which are now a matter of urgency. Romantically, it will do you good to be closeted alone with a loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Never imagine that private and personal changes are over, just because the situation has calmed down. Everything that happens contributes to a fund of experience that will stand you in very good stead in the future. Besides, a critical financial point is now in the past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Family affairs require your attention, and the discussions you had earlier in the week should help you to deal with relations' little complaints, as well as their hopes. In love, your expectations will be high and getting higher. But will they be too high for any mere mortal to meet? Perhaps!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You really have a very remarkable mind, even though it often goes unnoticed by your less sensitive friends and family members. One of your major qualities is an ability to persuade other people that you are in the right. This is a gift you should now cultivate!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You have every right to feel proud of the way you have handled recent emotional upsets, but only if you have held back from accusing other people. There is no point in attributing blame in these situations, and it would be better to focus on finding reasonable solutions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Now that the Moon is constructively aligned with your sign you can afford to be complacent - at least for a while. It's not just a matter of putting your feet up, though. Much to your credit, you may also take control of situations which other people just seem unwilling, or unable, to handle.

BOOSTER DOSE 'UNETHICAL' NOW, MAY BE NEEDED LATER, SAYS ADAR

Serum Institute to ramp up production of Covishield to 200mn doses a month

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru:

WHILE some countries have started rolling out booster shots, and the jury in India is still out on this, Serum Institute of India's CEO Adar Poonawalla termed it "unethical" to roll out a booster dose in the country when a big section of the population is yet to be administered both doses. Several people in other countries are yet to get their first dose.

Adar Poonawalla's comments come weeks after his father and SII Chairman Cyrus Poonawalla said a third dose of the vaccine is a "must" and should be taken six months after the second dose. Clarifying his father's statement during a press conference to announce the strategic alliance of SSI with Biocon, Adar said,

"I think what he meant was some vulnerable sections could do with booster shots.

He said there is no evidence so far that a third dose is required, and it has not been recommended officially. Answering a question whether SSI is coming out with a booster shot, Adar said booster shots may be required annually down the line, but are not the need of the hour now.

He said, "It will be unethical to think of a booster shot now. However, the decision will be taken by the Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI) and Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR), based on data collected."

He said that Serum Institute will ramp up production of Covishield to 200mn doses a month by October. He also hinted that export restrictions on Covishield may be eased soon.

"There were some export restrictions temporarily, and rightly so, to take care of our nation's need first. We will slowly ease it in the next month or two. We are coming close to a point where there is more than enough vaccine stock," he explained. He expects easing of exports in the next couple of months.

Kid vax Covovax by Jan-Feb?

Adar Poonawalla said he is hopeful that Covovax, a vaccine for children as young as four years, will be ready for recommendation by January or February 2022. "Covovax has started trials on children. Three to four months is the minimum period we need to ascertain how safe, effective and accepted it is for children. We are going below the age of 12 in a phased manner, so we can cover almost down to the age of three or four," he said. Though the disease has not affected children to the same degree as it has adults, eventually every parent would want to vaccinate their child, he said. Poonawala, though, did not want to commit to an exact time frame, said, "My rough forecast is that it will be ready for recommendation by January or Febraury."

Biocon-Serum alliance to build biotech powerhouse

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TWO leading biotech players — Bengaluru-based Biocon Biologics Limited and Pune-based Serum Institute Life Sciences Private Ltd — have come together in a strategic alliance in a bid to increase vaccines and antibody therapeutics access for developing countries, for infectious diseases, including Covid-19, dengue and HIV.

As part of the deal, BBL has offered 15% stake to SILS at a post-money valuation of $4.9 billion in exchange for committed access to 100 million doses of vaccines per year for 15 years.

Announcing this at a joint press meet on Friday, Biocon founder Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw and SII chief executive Adar Poonawalla said the partnership aims to complement the strengths and resources of the two leading players and make a significant impact on global healthcare through vaccines and biologics. "BBL will commercialise Serum's vaccine portfolio, including Covid vaccines for global markets, and this would also be additional growth for BBL. Research and manufacturing infrastructure will also be leveraged by this partnership for opportunities in infectious diseases," Shaw said.

Poonawala said SII had to delay its plans to work on and produce monoclonal therapies for Covid due to the huge demand for Covishield vaccine production, and the new tie-up aims to address this. The duo stressed that the synergistic future-oriented deal will help growth of both companies. Adding that there is more to the partnership than just the 100 million vaccines that has been talked about, Poonawala said, "The opportunities are limitless and we will look at monoclonals and other therapeutics," he said.

BBMP wants to give flu vax to all children

ENS @Bengaluru

WORKING on the suggestion of the paediatric committee and Technical Advisory Committee, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and health department will soon send a proposal to the government on giving mandatory flu vaccine to all children.

While paediatricians are individually administering doses, and many parents are coming forward and demanding vaccination, many others are not. To cover all children and reduce the chances of flu and viral infections, and safeguard them from Covid-19 till a vaccine is launched, it has been suggested to give children the flu vaccine. Also, as some experts and doctors have accepted the proposal, many others state that it is not required.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta told the media on Friday said experts from both committees will send a proposal, that will be discussed with the government before a final decision is taken. As the number of children with viral infections is going up, a Covid-19 test has been made mandatory for those who have symptoms for more than two days. This will put all doubts to rest, and is an added precautionary measure, Gupta said.

TEJAS: THE GAME CHANGER

GIRISH LINGANNA

The indigenously developed Light Combat Aircraft (LCA Tejas), despite its decades of delay in development, has now come as a game changer not just for the Indian Air Force, but also to the Indian Defence Sector due to its export potential.

In June 2020, the Royal Malaysian Air Force sought to procure Force's fighter lead -in trainer/ Light Combat Aircraft (FLIT- LCA). It sought to replace its several trainer aircraft like BAE Hawk 108 and Aermacchi MB-339 CM trainer with LCA aircraft. It almost bagged a contract from Argentina, but it has been kept in abeyance due to technical hitches in the business. The Indian Public Sector company, HAL, which manufactures LCA Tejas, had reportedly said that it had responded to the US Navy's request for information for a new trainer to replace its fleet of Boeing T-45 Goshawks. The T-45 is a variant of the British Hawk trainer that was developed specifically for operating off aircraft carriers. The latest addition to these now is Royal Australian Air Force (RAAF). It wants to replace its trainer aircraft with LCA Tejas.

The development of LCA dates back to the 1980s, to replace the IAF's aging MiG- 21s. The project staggered until 2003, when it made its first flight. And it took nearly 13 long years to get final operations clearance and establish its first squadron called as 'Flying Daggers.' This was a classic example that India, which was trapped in the import of defence products for a long time, was now emerging as an exporter. It has been predicted as a future's major defence product manufacturer and all this has become possible only after the country's LCA became a reality. The Government's recent Atma Nirbhar Bharath and 'Make in India' initiatives gave a major impetus to the defence sector, where several small and big industries have joined hands to further strengthen India's defence aviation sector.

TEJAS, THE BACKBONE

In 2015, IAF had decided to acquire 40 Tejas Mark 1 and 83 Tejas Mark 1 A variants. The Union Cabinet, in late 2020, approved the purchase of 73 Tejas 1A and 10 trainer aircraft at a cost of Rs 45, 696 crores. Defence Minister Rajnath Singh described this deal as a game changer for self-reliance in defence manufacturing. He also said that Tejas will be the backbone of the fighter fleet of IAF in the days to come.

The Tejas MK1 had 58 per cent level of indigenisation and was increased by 65 per cent. It was fitted with ELM 2052 AESA (Active Electronically Scanned Array) radar. It will carry an ELL 8222 Self Protection Jammer (SPJ) pod on the external hard point and will be equipped with more advanced weapons. The Russian R-73 missile has been replaced with MBDA ASRAAM Missile for short range air combat as well as indigenously developed Astra MK-1BVR missile. It can also use the Israeli I-Derby-ER, which has a range of 100 kms.

Apart from Tejas MK1, the aircraft has other variants like MK1A, MK1 Naval version. The MK2, which is in the pipeline, will be a medium weight fighter. HAL is also developing a trainer aircraft for pilots graduating from advanced jet training. This was earlier known as Supersonic Omni Role Trainer (SpORT) Tejas LIFT (Lead in Fighter Trainer). It will train pilots after they graduate on AJT Hawk. The advantage of LCA lift is that it will be able to replicate the avionics suite and systems of all other fighters like Su-30MKI, Rafae, MiG-29, Mirage 2000 and Tejas. The pilots training in the LCA LIFT will be exposed to the entire bandwidth of equipment, weapons and sensors before they train with actual fighters.

Following the IAF's induction of Tejas into its armour, it has caught the attention of the world as there are many countries planning to buy it. The Royal Malaysian Air Force (RMAF) had recently published the tender for the supply of 18 fighter lead in Trainer-Light Combat Aircraft. Closing date for the tender is September 2022.

The United States Navy has expressed interest in the naval variant of HAL's Light Combat Aircraft.. The US Navy needs the trainer aircraft, which is capable of approaching the deck. LCA (Navy) has the carrier landing capability. On January 11, 2020, LCA successfully landed on India's aircraft carrier INS Vikramaditya.

HAL has unveiled a scaled mockup of a stealthy new design of India's under development Twin Engine Deck Based Fighter (TEDBF), to operate from the current and future Indian Navy Aircraft Carrier.

TEDBF is the medium weight 4.5 generation multi-role aircraft. It is being designed and developed under the national Multi-Role Carrier Borne Fighter (MRCBF) programme to complement the current fleet of Indian Navy's MIG-29K fighters and eventually replace it at the later phase. It will be a twin-engine fighter with the Maximum Take-Off Weight (MTOW) of 26 tonnes and an empty weight of around 11 to 12 tonnes designed to take-off from the Short Take-Off But Arrested Recovery (STOBAR) aircraft carriers, INS Vikramaditya and INS Vikrant (IAC 1) of the Indian Navy. The first prototype is expected to fly in 2026.

The TEDBF would host indigenous sensors and avionics which are already developed under the existing Tejas programme. They are in the advanced stage of development for Tejas MK2 and AMCA programmes. It will come with a scaled up UTTAM AESA Radar with the air and ground/ sea mode scanning capabilities which is under the final stage of testing.

Gram Swaraj Bill clears Council hurdle

A day after the Assembly passed the Karnataka Gram Swaraj and Panchayat Raj (Amendment) Bill, the Bill was passed in the Council on Friday amidst a walkout from the Opposition Congress and JDS members. The Bill allows for the constitution of a Delimitation Commission which will have powers to set boundaries of wards or constituencies of gram, taluk and zilla panchayats. Congress members, including Council Opposition leader S R Patil, spoke on the Bill. They opposed the Bill and staged a walkout.

'262 bus stns lack toilets for women'

Council on Friday witnessed hectic discussion on lack of toilets and restrooms for women in bus stations in Karnataka. JDS MLC KT Srikantegowda said of the 547 bus stations operated by KSRTC, BMTC, KKRTC, and NWKRTC, 262 of them lacked toilets for women. Members cutting across party lines demanded that steps be taken to construct the toilets at the earliest. In a written reply, Transport Minister B Sriramulu, said all four corporations were reeling under losses owing to Covid-19, and hence, it was difficult to take up any development work. "Once the financial condition improves, we will carry out infrastructure work," he said.

NEW STATE LAW TO STRENGTHEN CRIMINAL TRACKING SYSTEM

Assembly clears Bill which allows collection of blood, DNA samples of prisoners for better surveillance

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Assembly on Friday passed the Identification of Prisoners (Karnataka Amendment) Bill, 2021, which allows the authorities concerned to collect blood, DNA, voice and iris scan samples of convicts imprisoned for over a month which will become part of the database at the Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) in Bengaluru. This is being done for better surveillance.

Calling the Bill a "breakthrough in criminal tracking system", Home Minister Araga Jnanendra said a similar system was already in practice at the Central-level and now will be adopted in Karnataka.

The Bill, when it becomes a law, will empower the Superintendent of Police (SP) or Deputy Commissioners of Police (DCP) to order for collection of the aforementioned samples. Hitherto, the power was vested only with the judicial magistrate first class. After a period of 10 years, the authorities can order for destruction of the data.

BJP Chief Whip and MLA Satish Reddy said the new system will be useful for cities like Bengaluru which see a heavy inflow of foreigners.

Congress MLA Priyank Kharge sought to know whether necessary infrastructure was in place to store the database. "When MB Patil and Dr G Parameshwara were Home Ministers in past governments, they had sent a proposal to the Centre seeking grants under the Nirbhaya Fund to create infrastructure which could be followed up now," he suggested.

Home Minister Araga Jnanendra makes a point in the Assembly on Friday

Meanwhile, a Bill to constitute a Prison Development Board was passed in the Assembly to ensure that prisons in the state generate revenue by utilising the available human resources — the inmates. "States like Haryana are generating revenue of about Rs 600 crore annually from prisons. Manpower at prisons should not go waste," Jnanendra said, adding that in Karnataka, Rs 350 crore was spent on prisons. "The new board will also help inmates get involved in various activities and help them earn. This will ensure that once they are released from prisons, they will have cash to restart their lives," he said. The Board will have the prisons ministers as its chairman and officials of various departments as members. There will be a separate advisory committee consisting of social activists, media persons among others, but not any politicians, the minister clarified.

Another Bill that was passed was The Code of Criminal Procedure (Karnataka Amendment) Bill that will help recording of evidence of the witness by audio-video-electronic means in the presence of an advocate.

K'taka seeks five-year extension for GST relief

BANSY KALAPPA AND RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Bengaluru, Kalaburagi

THE Karnataka GST team asked the Union government not to include petrol and diesel under GST for now and sought the extension of GST compensation for another five years.

The team participated in the 45th GST Meeting at Lucknow in Uttar Pradesh on Friday. The team, which was normally headed by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, was this time fronted by C Shikha, Commissioner of Commercial Taxes. It consisted of Additional Commissioner, Commercial Taxes, Ravi Prasad and other senior officers. Its suggestion not to include petrol and diesel under GST was supported by most states and the Centre at the meeting.

It also wanted the extension of compensation to Karnataka for five more years on the grounds that revenue collection has been a challenge because of Covid and other reasons. Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman did not commit herself to the demand, but agreed to constitute two committees to look into the issue. One of the committees will study tax restructuring and the other will analyse IT systems for better enforcement.

The Centre's compensation for Karnataka is scheduled to end in June 2022. Bommai, too, has written two letters pressing for two demands of the state.

Karnataka earns around Rs 20,000 crore per annum from petrol and diesel, while the Centre's compensation is fixed at Rs 12,000-13,000 crore per annum.

On the inclusion of fuels under GST, Bommai, who was in Kalaburagi on Friday, said that many state governments, including Karnataka, are studying the impact of the move. "Once the state comes to a conclusion, we will make a recommendation to the Union Government," he added.

Govt moves Bill to ban online gambling, moots 3-year jail term

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the September 4 cabinet decision, Home Minister Araga Jnanendra tabled an important Bill in the Assembly on Friday which seeks to ban online gambling or betting on mobile phone applications by amending the Karnataka Police Act, 1963. However, lottery and betting on horse races will be exempted.

The Bill, which is expected to raise a storm when it comes for debate in the Assembly next week, proposes to restrict all forms of online gambling as per the Information Technology Act, 2000. Gambling in the form of money and using tokens, including betting on cricket and money transfer, will also come under its purview.

The amendment to the Act makes online gambling a non-bailable offence and, in case of conviction, entails three years of imprisonment with a fine ranging from Rs 25,000 to Rs 1 lakh. Earlier, it was one year imprisonment with Rs 1,000 penalty. The opposition parties are expected to raise the issue of gambling allegedly happening in the guise of recreation in some clubs across Karnataka.

A similar Bill was passed in the Tamil Nadu Assembly and some stakeholders, especially gaming technology companies, had moved court.

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai is expected to respond to the price rise issue on Monday. Opposition leader Siddaramaiah and other members had raised the issue on Wednesday, leading to ruling and opposition MLAs getting involved in heated arguments.

The CM who has been on a tour of central and north Karnataka districts since Thursday, will join the session.

"The CM will respond to the issues raised by the opposition on Monday," informed Assembly Speaker Vishveshwara Hegde Kageri. Prior to that, Bommai will hold a meeting of his cabinet at 9 am where the government response to the Opposition on the price rise issue is expected to be discussed.

Siddaramaiah had demanded that the government agree to pass a unanimous resolution appealing to the Centre to reduce excise duty on petroleum fuels besides the state itself reducing sales tax to bring down fuel price as done by the Tamil Nadu government.

Former Chief Minister and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy, who termed price rise as a "continuous process", had suggested announcing a package of Rs 25,000 to each of about 50,000 families affected by Covid-19 and price rise.

Political storm over temple demolition

KARTHIK KK @Mysuru

A few months ago, Hucchagani village in Nanjangud taluk had caught statewide attention for being a Covid-free village. But, over the last ten days, this remote village, about 35-km away from Mysuru city, is in the news again for 'temple politics' after a temple in the village was demolished.

In the wee hours of September 8, the taluk administration, with help of the police, brought earthmovers and demolished the Sri Adishakti Mahadevamma temple in the village. The officials were acting on a letter from Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar, dated July 1, 2021, to district deputy commissioners directing them to demolish illegal religious structures in every taluk and send a monthly compliance report. This was based on a Supreme Court order on demolishing places of worship which had illegally come up on government land.

But after a video of the temple demolition was uploaded by Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha and several other pro-Hindu outfits on social media, the issue snowballed into a political controversy, becoming a major embarrassment for the BJP government. It soon became the topic of 'temple politics' with Opposition leader Siddaramaiah condemning the incident and blaming the BJP.

The temple was among 15 religious structures which were identified in Nanjangud as encroaching on public property. The villagers had an "emotional connect" with the temple as it was built with public donations. While the villagers and officials are not sure when exactly the temple was built, they recall that Sadhguru Mahadeva Thata of Sangam Kshetra had offered prayers to the presiding deity and, a few decades ago, utilising the public donations, they gave the temple a structure and built a gopura.

But, several pro-Hindu outfits claimed that it was more than a century-old temple.

Pratap Simha, several villagers and pro-Hindu groups allege major lapses and say that due procedures were not followed and people were not taken into confidence. "The officials came like thieves overnight and demolished the temple," said Simha. Simha on Friday claimed that there are documents which show that the temple is at least 250 years old.

But officials, including the Nanjangud tahsildar claim that all due processes were followed. While a few youngsters from the village claim that the villagers were informed about the demolition in the past, they said the officers might have razed it in the wee hours fearing opposition.

BJP MLA Harshavardhan himself agreed that the officials had told him under what circumstances they had taken the action. "Nearly 15 temples were identified in my constituency of which 13 were saved. Similar demolition drives took place in the neighbouring taluks, but only this temple got highlighted," he said. The government has sought an explanation from the Mysuru DC and Nanjangud tahsildar.

Revenue Minister R Ashoka on Friday said CM Basavaraj Bommai will soon announce the government's decision on the temple demolition issue. The government halted the drive after facing flak from leaders from all political parties and many organisations.

ENS @ Mysuru

FORMER chief minister B S Yediyurappa, who visited Mysuru for the first time after stepping down from office as CM, was accorded a ceremonial welcome at Suttur Mutt here on Friday.

Speaking to the media, the Shikaripur MLA expressed displeasure over the recent demolition of Mahadevamma temple in Hucchagani village in Nanjangud taluk. Yediyurappa said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has instructed the authorities concerned to stop the demolition drive. The Lingayat strongman further said that he will advise the government not to demolish any temples in the future.

Yediyurappa also met Suttur Mutt seer Shivarathri Deshikendra Swami. Nanjangud Tahsildar Mohana Kumari, who is facing backlash from several quarters over the demolition of the temple, was present at the Suttur Mutt during Yediyurappa's visit. The former CM also launched the 'Modi Yug Utsav' to commemorate the 71st birthday of PM Narendra Modi. The 20-day utsav was planned by MLA S A Ramadass.

Meanwhile, Union MoS for Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare, Shobha Karandlaje, said in Udupi on Friday that demolition of religious structures is not correct. Prior notice should be served if any religious structure is found to be built illegally, she said.

Allot recovered land in Bidadi for sports centre: Minister to CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

YOUTH Empowerment and Sports Minister K C Narayana Gowda has requested that the 77.18-acre land that was recovered in Bidadi recently be allotted to the sports department for building a sports complex to train state athletes for national and international events.

Gowda has written to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Revenue Minister R Ashok requesting them to allot the land at the earliest. The Ramanagara district administration had recently recovered the land parcel near Bidadi on the outskirts of Bengaluru, following a court direction.

"The land is vast and is best for sporting activities. It is intended to construct a sports complex of international standards to train our athletes so that they can compete in international events such as the Olympics and the Asian Games. The Sports Department is also on the lookout for land for this purpose," the minister stated in the letter.

Citing the advantages of having a sports complex in Bidadi, Gowda said that it is very close to the state capital, the international airport is closer while road connectivity is also good as the Bengaluru-Mysuru Expressway is getting ready. "It is the best place to set up a sports complex as it has many advantages. It will be convenient for athletes and it will be a good place to host international sports events. Though the Sri Kanteerava Stadium and all district stadiums are being upgraded, having a sports complex in Bidadi will have a lot of advantages," he contended.

A worker who looks after horses at a popular Kannada actor's farmhouse on T Narsipur Road, has been booked for allegedly raping a minor girl. The accused is identified as Nazeem, from Bihar. According to a complaint filed at the Mysuru women's police station, the 10-year-old victim whose parents also worked as labourers in the farmhouse, started insisting that they move back to their village. When the mother inquired with the girl, she revealed about the incident.

HC to decide if SIT can file final report in CD case

Victim's counsel says accused is powerful, probe should be by court-appointed team

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court will hear on September 27 whether the Special Investigation Team (SIT) can be granted leave to file the final report in the CD case allegedly involving BJP leader and former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum said that it will hear the interim order, in which the SIT was asked not to file the final report without prior permission from the court, as the main matter requires detailed hearing.

The court was hearing senior counsel Indira Jaising, representing the victim in the case, and Advocate General Prabhuling K Navadgi, in public interest litigation filed by advocate Geetha Misra questioning the validity of the constitution of SIT, and two other petitions filed by the victim.

Jaising argued that the report by the investigating agency should have been prepared in accordance with Section 167 of the CrPC. She also argued that the accused is a powerful person and the investigation should be conducted by the SIT to be appointed by the court. However, the current SIT was constituted by the City Police Commissioner with handpicks of his own, which is out of the purview of the CrPC. In response to the letter written by the accused, she argued for judicial investigation into the leak to the media of the confidential investigation report submitted to the court in a sealed cover.

Opposing continuation of the interim order, the Advocate General argued that Section 173 of CrPC mandates that each investigation should be completed without unnecessary delay and the officer in-charge of the police station should forward the report to a magistrate empowered to take cognisance of the offence, as soon as the investigation is completed. The final report is not going to give a clean chit, or convict the accused, he added.

5 OF FAMILY DIE IN SUICIDE PACT, 2-YR-OLD SURVIVES

ENS @Bengaluru

FIVE members of a family, including a nine-month-old child, were found dead at their residence at Thigalarapalya in Byadarahalli on Friday evening. While the child starved to death, others hanged themselves, the police said. The bodies were highly decomposed as they committed suicide four days ago. Another child, who is two-and-half-years old, survived miraculously without food or water. A family dispute is said to be the reason behind the suicide pact, the police said.

The deceased have been identified as Bharathi (51), Sinchana (34), Sindhurani (31), her nine-month-old son, and Madhu Sagar (25). All the bodies were shifted to Victoria Hospital for postmortem.

The incident came to light around 5 pm on Friday when Bharathi's husband Shankar Hallagere returned home. He noticed the doors locked from inside and opened one of the windows to find his family members hanging. He alerted the police, who broke open the door and shifted the bodies. The surviving child was admitted to a nearby hospital.

The neighbours did not hear the cries of the two-and-half-year-old child. No suicide note was found.

Shankar, who runs a local newspaper, married Bharathi a few years ago. Sinchana, Sindhurani and Madhu were their children. The couple quarrelled frequently and on Sunday too they fought, and Shankar walked out in a huff. He stayed in his office for two days and then went to Mysuru to meet his friends. After returning on Friday, he went to the house and saw the horrific sight.

He was behaving strangely: Mom

SOON after the police were alerted, a Hoysala patrol team reached the spot. They found Rahul's mobile phone ringing continuously and answered the call. It was his mother desperately trying to reach him. The police asked Rahul's parents and elder sister to come to the bus-stop.

Senior police officers, including Deputy Commissioner of Police (Central) MN Anuchet, inspected the spot, while the forensic team conducted a spot mahazar and recovered evidence.

The police handed over the 3.2mm pistol and a pack of cartridges in a pouch to the forensics team. As part of the probe, the investigators also recovered some notes from Rahul's room in his house.

The reason behind Rahul's suicide is yet to be ascertained, but his mother told the police that he had been behaving strangely for the last few months. Around midnight on Friday, he kept asking for his old photograph. When she told him it was too late and asked him to sleep, he went into his room to read. They did not notice him leaving the house.

The spot where Rahul's body was found on Friday | VINOD KUMAR T

The mother said that Rahul was taken for counselling, as he used to lock himself in the room and not talk to his friends, relatives or neighbours. Whenever he received calls, he would hand over the phone to his parents. His mother said the family did not pressure him to study as he was serious about academics. "We are verifying his phone call records to understand whether he was under any stress," an investigating officer said.

The body was shifted to MS Ramaiah Hospital for postmortem. Rahul's father filed a complaint with the Sadashivnagar police stating that he had kept the firearm in the almirah. He possessed the licensed weapon, an Indian Ordnance Factory-made pistol, since his retirement in 2017.

The family, which hails from Uttarakhand, had settled in Bengaluru for the last two decades.

3 cyber conmen traced to Haryana, held for SIM racket

ENS @Bengaluru

IN a major hunt for cyber criminals, the CID Cyber Crime police have nabbed three people who activated SIM cards and e-wallets, and sold them to cybercrime racketeers across the country. Their involvement is established in over 3,900 cases across India.

With a sharp rise in cases in which miscreants befriended gullible victims on social media and later extorted them by making video calls, capturing private images and videos by luring them to strip, cybercrime sleuths started analysing the cases to get to the root of the issue.

During investigations, the team found that miscreants were using SIM cards that were obtained by giving fake documents. "A detailed investigation was done to trace the persons who were supplying SIM cards to them, and based on digital evidence, the accused were traced to Haryana. The police team visited Nuh, Punhana, Ghurwali and other places in Haryana, and nabbed three persons from a remote village, despite facing strong resentment from local residents," an official release said. It is learnt that two police staffers was assaulted by residents during the operation.

The arrested are Mohammed Mujahid, Mohammed Ikbal and Asif. Mujahid is a graduate and obtained several point-of-sale agencies/retailership from a leading mobile service provider by providing fake documents. Ikbal was running a computer centre and created fake Aadhaar cards, while Asif, who has studied PU, is a sub-agent for Mujahid and other retailers and supplied photographs of people to create fake documents.

The Principal District Judge, Warangal shall hand over the same to the Judicial Registrar immediately.

The bench heard the contention of State Advocate General BS Prasad that the statements of the seven alleged eye witnesses have been recorded.

During the course of adjudication, the court observed that: ".. this is a case of un-natural death and there are serious allegations that late Pallakonda Raju was killed allegedly by the police and the whole issue was made to look like a suicide. This court do not wish to express any of our opinion on the contentions of either of the parties and this court feels it appropriate to direct for an inquiry by the jurisdictional magistrate."

Kerala's lodestar in physics no more

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ T'Puram

A YEAR ago, Stanford University's citation study ranked Prof Thanu Padmanabhan as 24th in the field of theoretical physics in the world. In an academic career spanning 44 years, Padmanabhan has written about a dozen books, 300 research papers and earned about 17,800 citations. Had death not put a brake on his academic pursuit, he would have brought the coveted Nobel Prize to India some day, experts feel.

He died in Pune on Friday morning after collapsing at his home. He was rushed to the nearby hospital where he died during treatment. Doctors certified the cause of death as cardiac arrest. He was 64.

Padmanabhan, who was born in Thiruvananthapuram in 1957, had a high level of scholarship in many areas of theoretical physics. His publications were mostly in Quantum and Classical Gravity, Cosmology and Structure Formation in the Universe. His experiments with gravity had fetched him prizes in nine years in the prestigious annual Gravity Essay contest held by the Gravity Research foundation, USA.

At the time of death, Padmanabhan was working as the Distinguished Professor at IUCAA. He was also an adjunct faculty member of the Indian Institutes of Science Education and Research (IISER) (Mohali), IISER (Pune), IISER (Thiruvananthapuram), Raman Research Institute (Bengaluru), TIFR (Mumbai), Harish- Chandra Research Institute (Allahabad) and Jamia Millia Islamia (Delhi).

Padmanabhan was a Sackler Distinguished Astronomer of the Institute of Astronomy (IoA) at Cambridge, UK, and a visiting faculty at several institutions abroad. The distinguished scientist had won several laurels including Padma Shri in 2007.

The work of Padmanabhan was not confined to laboratories. He had made commendable contributions to popularising science among the general public by giving lectures and writing in popular magazines. A comic strip serial authored by him, 'The Story of Physics', intended for schoolchildren, has been translated into several regional Indian languages.

KIOCL looks at foreign steel majors for supplies

Annual Meeting

At the 45th AGM of KIOCL, held on Wednesday, the shareholders adopted the annual accounts for financial year 2020-21 and approved the final dividend of Rs 1.64 / per equity share (ie. 33.09 per cent of PAT) on face value of Rs 10 each. The total dividend for the financial year ended March 31, 2021, amounts to Rs 99.67 crore.

IRON ORE producer KIOCL has started exploring new sources to supplement the shortfall in National Mineral Development Corporation (NMDC) supplies.

On Friday, KIOCL's newly appointed CMD, T Saminathan, said they have adopted a new strategy of entering into back-to-back contracts under tolling arrangement, which helps the company with assured iron ore supplies and a market for its pellets. The customer supplies iron ore fines/concentrates/pellet feed to KIOCL and purchases equivalent quantity of pellets from the company against separate purchase and sale contracts.

KIOCL has used iron imported from major iron ore suppliers like M/s Vale, M/s Anglo American and mining companies in Canada and India and exported the pellets produced.

The CMD said the KIOCL is currently in discussion with steel majors M/s Jindal Shadeed Iron and Steel, Oman, and M/s POSCO, South Korea, to enter into long-term agreement through tolling arrangement for sustenance of its pellet plant operation.

"We are planning to begin it in three months time. With this, the cost of production is expected to come down. This is part of Aatmanirbhar Bharat," he said.

He said the mineral exploration works assigned by NMET, Ministry of Mines, are under different stages of execution. KICOL completed G4 level exploration works for four blocks, and submitted the report to NMET. In addition, 10 blocks of iron and manganese ore, allotted by the Karnataka Government for G2 and G3 level exploration works, are under progress.

SC GIVES NOD FOR CLASS 11 PHYSICAL EXAM IN KERALA

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Friday gave its nod for the physical conduct of Class 11 examinations in Kerala to hold Plus One (Class XI) exams in offline mode and said that the third wave of Covid-19 pandemic is not in the offing and trusted the authorities to follow all precautions. On September 3, the court had restrained Kerala from proceeding with its Class 11 examinations beginning September 6 on account of the alarming situation posed by surge in Covid-19 cases that posed a risk to health of students. More than 300,000 students in the state are supposed to appear for the examinations. ENS

NIA seeks info on online ISIS propaganda

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) has appealed to the public to bring to its notice any online propaganda related to the Islamic State of Iraq & Syria (ISIS). "ISIS is trying to spread its tentacles in India through continuous propaganda online. Gullible youth are being targeted on open social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. Once a person shows interest, he or she is enticed to communicate with online handlers based abroad, using encrypted social media platforms," stated the agency on Friday.

"Depending on the gullibility of the person, the handlers use the person to upload online content, translate IS texts to local language, conspiracy, preparation of a module, collection of arms and ammunition, preparation of IEDs, terror funding and even attacks," the agency added. The NIA has investigated 37 cases of ISIS-related terror attacks, conspiracy and funding.

A total of 168 accused were arrested, and chargesheets were filed in 31 cases, and 27 accused were convicted after trial." Contact NIA on 011-24368800.

APART from Bengaluru Urban, districts of Shivamogga, Dharwad, Ramanagara, Hassan, Davanagere, Chikkaballapur, Chikkamagaluru, Tumakuru, Haveri and Bagalkot achieved more than 100 per cent of their targets.

With Friday's performance, the total doses administered in the State in September have gone up to 87 lakh. "We are confident of crossing the target of 1.5 crore we have set ourselves for September. It is a phenomenal effort by Karnataka to administer more doses today (Friday) than Bihar and Uttar Pradesh, which have bigger populations," said Dr K Sudhakar, Minister for Health & Family Welfare and Medical Education.

However, on a day that China — the only other country in the world more populous than India — reported a total vaccination coverage of over 1 billion (100 crore), India's total number of vaccinations stood at 772.42 million (77,24,25,744) so far.

Experts, while lauding the effort, said it needs to be sustained to ensure that the entire population is vaccinated by December-end.

Prof Sashikumar Ganesan, Chairman, Department of Computational and Data Sciences, Indian Institute of Science, said Friday's coverage of over two crore vaccinations is phenomenal, "and shows the capacity of our healthcare system. If we continue with this rate, we could avoid the third wave. Nevertheless, it is not clear to me why we waited this long when we had such capabilities!"

FRESH SHOT AT DISPOSING OF STRESSED ASSETS

The government announced a new structure to profit off what's broken at India's commercial banks. The proposed National Asset Reconstruction Company Ltd (NARCL) will acquire ₹2 lakh crore worth toxic loans from banks paying 15% cash up front, followed by 85% sovereign-backed tradable security receipts. The entire ₹2 lakh crore worth NPAs belong to some 30-40 large defaulters, with each owing in excess of ₹500 crore. In phase one, ₹90,000 crore worth sour assets that banks had written off will be absorbed. Initial estimates peg recoverable amount at 30-40%, which means that if the NARCL's valuation suits banks, they get upfront payment that can boost profitability and capital position within this fiscal. However, there won't be any decline in gross NPAs as they are already written off.

The move comes after the RBI's humble attempt in 2017 to resolve 40 large NPAs in a time-bound manner, courtesy the freshly minted bankruptcy law. Five years after the insolvency proceedings, it's evident that resolution is anything but smooth thanks to legal hurdles. Moreover, recoveries weren't really handsome, barring a few isolated cases. Now, the government is giving it another shot, allowing itself ample time—five years—for resolution or recovery. The one distinguishing factor between all the existing resolution routes and the proposed NARCL is that it's a much faster way for banks to get rid of stressed assets without fretting over the resolution or liquidation process and instead focus on core banking.

In essence, the NARCL allows swift ownership change of NPAs, but much like other mechanisms, the new game in town lacks the one thing that's needed—tackling bargain-hunting buyers. Banks are stuck with stressed assets not because they are all worthless, but because prospective buyers are looking for cut-price deals or promoters are blocking the way, moving courts and stalling resolutions, offering last minute payouts. Whether it's banks or the new asset reconstruction company, success squarely depends on the market appetite and valuing the asset just right.

MULTILATERAL POWER GAME IN THE REGION

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has stressed the need for the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) to think of its future as it turned 20 this Friday. Airing India's concerns over Afghanistan at the SCO Virtual Summit, he has called for regional cooperation on the same. The SCO, born out of the mutual need of China and Russia to settle border issues and keep the US off Central Asia, has since expanded to include several members, the latest being Iran. If ever there was a time for the SCO to walk the talk, it is now.

Nonetheless, it may be too much to expect the SCO to play an effective role in Afghanistan and tame the Taliban. For one thing, the organisation is crippled by competing and contradictory interests of its members. It is true that a stable and peaceful Afghanistan is in the interests of everyone from Russia, China and the former Soviet Republics to India and even Pakistan. However, with China massing its troops on the Indian borders and Pakistan eager to use its newly-acquired 'strategic depth' in Afghanistan for the detriment of India, cooperation with them on terrorism sounds naive. Strategically, though, India can make use of the forum to strengthen relations with Iran, which shares similar concerns over the Taliban. While China and Russia may be quick to get in bed with Pakistan's puppet terror group, India should up the ante along with Iran for the formation of an inclusive government in Afghanistan. Notwithstanding its deepening relationship with the US, Israel and Saudi Arabia, India cannot afford to alienate Iran.

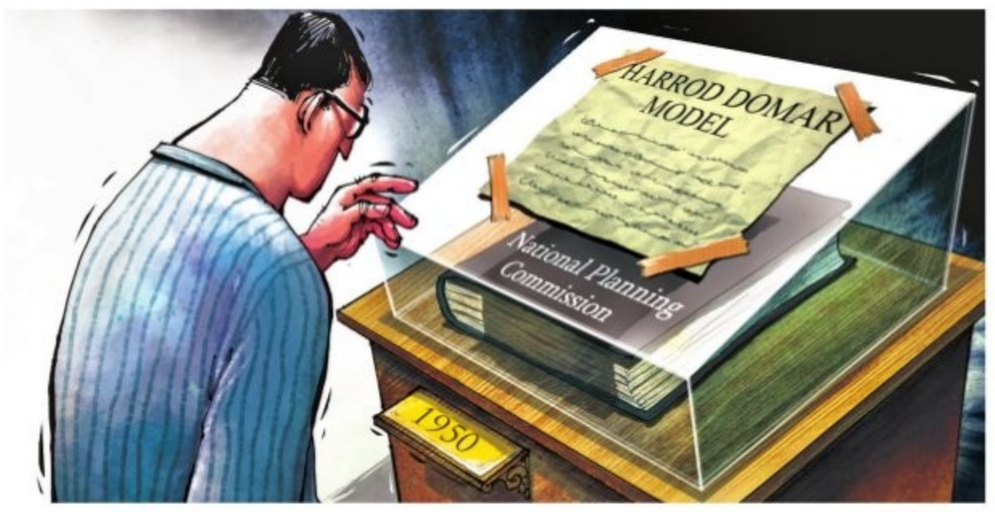
And next week, the Prime Minister will be attending the first in-person Quad Summit. This comes close on the heels of the newly-minted AUKUS (Australia, UK, US) alliance under which Canberra will get a fleet of nuclear submarines, clearly aimed at deterring China in the Indo-Pacific region. India, which has been vocal about the Quad, may come under pressure to play an active role in the region. From the SCO to the Quad, as it navigates its way, India's mantra must remain the same—cooperation, not confrontation, but from a position of strength.

Students learning economics and preparing for competitive tests have always been taught that the First Plan's model was crafted based on Harrod-Domar's growth theory

FIVE-YEAR PLANS AND THE MYTH OF HARROD-DOMAR

BIBEK DEBROY

Chairman, Economic Advisory Council to the PM



SOUMYADIP SINHA

In an earlier column, I wrote about thoughts on planning immediately before and after Independence, the trigger being 75th Independence Day. Going back to those times, there was the Industrial Policy Resolution in 1948. This stated that the government proposed to set up a National Planning Commission. For industry, it also clearly articulated principles of complete state monopoly in some sectors and new enterprises in others, possible nationalisation of existing private sector enterprises and majority Indian equity in instances involving foreign capital. Statutory formalisation of these principles came through the Industries (Development and Regulation) Act (IDRA) of 1951. The Bill was ready in 1949 and mentioned the Central government's powers to license new undertakings, and register and regulate existing ones. A quote will illustrate what this piece of legislation achieved. In Section 2, "It is hereby declared that it is expedient in the public interest that the Union should take under its control the industries specified in the First Schedule." Eventually, almost everything one could think of came to be included in the First Schedule. The original First Schedule had 37 heads, which increased to 42 in 1953. Over time, the heads were also reclassified so one can't simply look at the number of heads and deduce an increase in the importance of IDRA. For instance, in 1951, hurricane lanterns were a separate head. Later, they became an item under the head of commercial, office and household equipment.

To the 1951 statute, bits and pieces would continue to be added. A 1953 amendment gave the Centre powers to assume control of an existing industrial undertaking. That amendment also gave it powers to control supply, distribution and prices. In books on economic policymaking, rarely is there a reference to statutes, though they provide the backing for policy. A recent book by Gautam Chikermane (70 Policies that Shaped India) is a rare exception. In the list of statutes that form the bedrock of economic policy, the most important is the Constitution, enacted in 1950. Today's Constitution is not identical to the one adopted in 1950. The Constitution has been amended several times. The Preamble to the Constitution has the word "socialist" now. It didn't then. There were Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of State Policy and there were bound to be tensions between the former and the latter. A case in point is the First Amendment to the Constitution. The year was 1951. While the First Amendment changed many Articles in the original Constitution, of particular interest was the insertion of Article 31A, 31B and the Ninth Schedule. The Ninth Schedule moved laws listed in the Schedule outside the ambit of judicial scrutiny. Have all Amendments to the Constitution been desirable? Was the Ninth Schedule desirable? I don't think everyone will categorically say yes to either question.

This was the context in which the Planning Commission was set up through a Cabinet Resolution dated 15 March 1950. The Resolution mentioned both Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of State Policy. The First Five Year Plan was for the period 1951-56.

Back in 1951, theories of growth were simple. Over time, they became more sophisticated. The developmental economic lens also changed. Models used by the Planning Commission also became more complicated

What does an economy's output depend on? It depends on inputs used (land, labour, capital) and the productivity of these inputs in the process. That's the domain of growth theory; approaches to developmental economics have connections with it. Back then, in 1951, theories of growth were simple. Over time, they became more complicated and sophisticated, and the developmental economic lens also changed. Over time, models used by the Planning Commission also became more complicated. In 1951, growth theory primarily meant Harrod-Domar, a model independently developed by Roy Harrod in 1939 and Evsey Domar seven years later. In its very simple statement, the growth rate is determined by the savings rate divided by the capital/output ratio. If the capital/output ratio is given, you need to increase the savings rate to raise growth rate, which in turn will increase investment rate.

As a student learning economics, I was taught that the First Plan's model was Harrod-Domar. As a teacher teaching economics, I taught that the First Plan's model was Harrod-Domar. Every student preparing for a competitive examination and opting for Indian economic policy studies this. But I think it is a myth. The Plan document didn't mention the Harrod-Domar model by name. In all probability, that explicit link between the two was first mentioned in a paper authored by P R Brahmananda in 1955 and popularised through another paper by K N Raj in 1961. Apart from anything else, the statistical base for modelling didn't exist then. In April 1951, the first report of the National Income Committee highlighted problems with the statistical system. The CSO (Central Statistical Organisation) and NSSO (National Sample Survey Organisation) were in their formative years. The Collection of Statistics Act would be passed in 1953. This Harrod-Domar myth is post-facto rationalisation by economists of what the First Plan did. Before a Plan could be prepared, the fledgling Planning Commission had to prepare (in July 1950) a six-year programme for the Commonwealth Consultative Committee. This later became part of the Colombo Plan and was for the period between 1950 and 1956. In July 1951, this document formed the basis of the draft outline for the First Five Year Plan. When finalised in December 1952, no wonder critics said it wasn't much of a Plan.

ARTISTIC WATER BODIES OF MEDIEVAL KARNATAKA

R H KULKARNI

Professor, Dept of Art History, College of Fine Arts, Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath

Water is the most essential part of life. Water management has been an integral part of Indian civilisation and a large number of water bodies have been developed since ancient times. There are fine examples of wells excavated and treated like temples with multi-storied structures and sculptures. Gujarat's Rani-ki-Vav is one of the finest examples of artistic wells. Many kings and donors patronised the excavation of large water bodies to benefit the people. In the early historical period, Mauryan emperor Asoka excavated large lakes for water supply for agriculture and drinking. One such example mentioned in the Girnar (Gujarat) inscription refers to Sudarshana lake. Subsequently, digging wells and excavating water channels had become an auspicious duty of the kings and many members of the public also got such works excavated.

Ancient civilisations are found on the banks of rivers. Temples were also built with water sources within the premises. In Karnataka, Chutu Satavahana Princess Shivaskanda Nagashri got a pond excavated in Banavasi, recorded in her Naga image inscription found at Banavasi. Banavasi Kadamba king Mayura Sharma excavated a pond at Chandravalli near Chitradurga. There are a good number of similar examples. The Early Chalukyas of Badami were known for their water bodies and water management. The town of Badami is situated on the bank of the ancient water body known as Agasthya Teertha and even today, the water is used for daily purposes. Similarly, the Mahakuta temples are situated around the ancient water pond Dev Droni. This is one of the earliest ponds that has stone masonry and stone mandapa amidst the water body with a Chaturmukha Shiva Linga.

In medieval Karnataka, many artistic wells and ponds have been constructed. They remind us of temples and in certain cases, there are narrative sculptures depicted on the inner walls. During the Kalyan Chalukya and Hoysala periods, many artistic wells and ponds were constructed. Lakkundi in Gadag District is known as the temple town of the Kalyan Chalukya period. The village is once believed to have had 100 wells and an equal number of temples. It appears to be true as there are many wells that have become dumping yards or closed by the locals. However, a well-known example is still intact near Lakkundi's Manikeshwara temple. Popularly known as Musukina Bhavi, it has impressive architecture. It is a rectangular-shaped large stepped well. The well is decorated with shrines all around, which were enshrined with Shiva Linga. The well has an entrance that leads into a flight of steps, which take one down to the water. The entrance also has a beautiful double storey structure and side shrines. The upper roof portion, which is like a bridge, connects to the Manikeshwara temple built on the upper surface near the well. The bridge has a mandapa-like structure beneath with heavy square pillars.

The well at Sudi in Ron taluk of Gadag district is situated on the northeastern corner of an ancient temple site. Unlike deep stepped wells, here it is designed like a temple. The well is nested deep into the ground and has a square plan. There is an oblong entrance with a gateway and a flight of steps leading to the well. The inner walls are decorated like any Kalyan Chalukya temple. The inner space of the well gives the feeling that all three sides are the rear walls of a temple. The walls have adisthana (plinth) followed by the bhitti, with koshtas (miniature shrines with pilasters) at regular intervals, creating a perfect wall of a temple. There are also niches to enshrine images inside. The wall culminates with upper decorative motifs. Overall it gives an imposing appearance. Its entrance is yet another interesting feature. Both the Lakkundi and Sudi wells belong to the Kalyan Chalukya period dating to about 1080-1120 CE and follow the contemporary rich temple architecture.

Water bodies in the village of Mudanuru (Surpur taluk, Yadgir district) have some interesting features. They are large rectangular ponds with stone masonry all around with stepped entrances on the two sides. On one side, there will be a facility to lift water for agriculture purposes. The ponds have narrative sculptures: Samudra Mathana, Narasimha fighting Hiranyakashipu, Vamana Trivikrama, Varaha rescuing Bhudevi and also many themes depicting Krishna Bhagavata and Ramayana stories. The tradition of depicting narrative sculptures on well walls may be first noticed in the Huchchimalli temples in Aihole of the Badami Chalukya period (early 8th century). Here the images are unique in their style and mode of narrations. Only selected episodes of the themes are depicted all around the pond's inner wall. The ponds have groundwater sources and are filled with copious amounts of water even during the harsh summer.

Water bodies play an important role in rituals in temples and were usually created in the northeastern corners of the premises. The artistic wells with beautiful structural embellishments and sculptures added to the medieval architecture. The Kalyan Chalukya period is rich in temple traditions and equally rich in its water bodies.

Kohli's decision pragmatic

Indian cricketer Virat Kohli's decision to relinquish captaincy of the T20 team might have stumped his fans but it can hardly be denied that much thought appears to have gone into it. India is perhaps the only cricket-playing nation to have the same captain across all three formats. The BCCI also seemed content as long as Kohli was performing. The pressure of leading the country in all the formats besides captaining an IPL team, albeit with little success, has probably prompted Kohli to step down. But with a proven performer like Rohit Sharma waiting to step into Kohli's shoes, we might still be winners in the short format.

CV Aravind, Bengaluru

Success as a captain

Kohli stepping down as T20 captain brings to an end a very illustrious tenure. It had been obvious from the start that he would be taking over after M S Dhoni stepped down from his captaincy. His style of batting is quite aggressive, which is perfect for limited-overs matches where more runs are needed. Though he didn't win any ICC trophy during his captaincy, the team's many wins is a marker of Kohli's success as captain.

Djokovic's tears painful

It was painful to see Novak Djokovic crying as the Serb saw a rare chance of winning a Calendar Slam, and bagging a 21st Grand Slam, slip away at the last hurdle in the US Open. Luck and fate play an important role in sports. And kudos to Daniil Medvedev.

Neeraja Natarajan Ramin, Alappuzha

Important for next gen

By dismantling the stalwart's game in quick time and winning his maiden Grand Slam title, Medvedev has now opened the doors of Grand Slam glory for others like Alexander Zverev and Stefanos Tsitsipas. This triumph is important for the new generation of players and will give them the self-belief to perform on the big stage and that too in a final. Djokovic's famed comeback was not to be and his temperament again came under the scanner. For now it's 20 titles each for the big three and one will have to wait till 2022 to see who inches ahead in this great rivalry.

Stuck to his convictions

This is with reference to The value that Prime Minister Modi adds (Sep 17). The PM's innovative ideas and strenuous efforts for flawless implementation have elevated him to the dizzy heights of remarkable success. He has stuck to his own convictions and found solutions for knotty issues in his administration, unmindful of the criticism from various regions. This has won him countless accolades from the whole world. The famous saying, "Be the change you want to see in the world," truly applies to Modi.

Babus impeded progress

It is true that the PM has a number of values like purity of purpose and a strong will to implement innovative programmes for the rapid progress of the nation. However, the babus entrenched on the path of implementation of these projects moving at a snail's pace are hindering his intent and commitment. One can also not conclusively say that his government handled the pandemic well, as there seemed to be a lot of confusion in the early stages of the virus spread.

No Ravi in the mix, Naga peace talks to resume

Ex-IB officer Mishra Centre's interlocutor after NSCN objects to TN guv's presence

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

AFTER nearly two years, talks between the National Socialist Council of Nagaland (Issak-Muivah faction) and the Centre government is set to resume on September 20 in Dimapur. Talks from the government will be led by AK Mishra. This indicates that Naga talks interlocutor RN Ravi, who was recently appointed Tamil Nadu governor, has been sidelined. The Naga group had complained against him to PM Narendra Modi.

The last formal talks between the NSCN (IM) and Ravi took place in January, 2020. After that, the two sides held an informal meeting in New Delhi in August last year. Ravi did not attend that meeting. Ravi, who continues to be the interlocutor in Naga peace talks, is not going to be present in this meeting, sources told this newspaper. They added that Mishra, a former special director of the Intelligence Bureau, is likely to be appointed the new interlocutor of Naga peace talks.

> The representative of GoI acted irresponsibly and disrespectfully to the Naga talk teams on January 30 in Dimapur, referring to NSCN proposal submitted on January 18 as stupid and contaminated
>
> Muivah's letter to PM

The development comes after the Centre signed a ceasefire agreement with the NSCN faction led by Niki Sumi. NSCN-IM questioned the government on the September 8 agreement with the Sumi group and claimed it is the only authentic political organisation representing the Naga people. It said that signing of ceasefire agreements with "its surrogate factions" was a futile exercise.

Talks ran into trouble after Ravi allegedly circulated a 'doctored' version of the framework agreement signed in 2015 between Issak Chishi Swu, Thuingaleng Muivah and Ravi in the presence of PM Modi. In between, there were bitter exchanges between Ravi and NSCN-IM.

Following that, Home Minister Amit Shah deputed then Assam Finance Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma, Nagaland CM Neiphiu Rio and a Naga social activist to meet Muivah in Delhi to understand their grievances.

It is learnt that the trio including Sarma, who is believed to be a trusted lieutenant of Shah, convinced the latter that Ravi should be relived of his responsibilities as Naga interlocutor. After the feedback given by the trio, Mishra was roped in with a senior serving IB official to continue the engagements with NSCN-IM. They are believed to have held informal meetings with the senior leadership of the insurgent group.

For the last year, Muivah has maintained that only Ravi's removal from the post of interlocutor would ensure that talks will proceed. "The NSCN had exercised much restraint against the systematic ultimatum issued by the representative of GoI (Ravi) since July, 2019, which was replaced during the talks on October 31, 2019. The representative of GoI has acted very irresponsible and disrespectful (sic) to the Naga talk teams during the talks on January 30 in Dimapur, referring to the NSCN proposal submitted on January 18 as stupid and contaminated," stated Muivah's February letter to the PM.

Maharashtra cities record spike in Covid cases again

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

WITH the festive season approaching, Covid-19 cases have risen by almost 20% of late in Mumbai and Thane.

According to Maharashtra government data, Mumbai had 5,393 cases and a positivity rate of 10.86% on September 15. On September 7, these figures were 4,165 and 8.69%. In Maharashtra, there were 49,671 cases on September 15 after the state reported 47,926 on September 7.

"Daily growth of Covid-19 cases was reported in Mumbai, Thane, Ahmednagar and Nasik districts," said a state government report. In all, 39 residential buildings have been sealed by Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation. Most of these are high-rises. The slums have not reported any drastic rise in daily number of cases.

Maharashtra Health Minister Rajesh Tope said that because this is the festive season, people should not forget Covid-19 guidelines. He said there is a rise in positive cases, particularly in metro cities Mumbai, Pune and Nasik.

"The devotees of Lord Ganesha should avoid gathering at the one place that can turn into a hotspot to spread the virus. In the pandemic time, we should be more careful. Otherwise, things will go out of hand. If the demand for oxygen surpasses 700 metric tonnes per day in Maharashtra, then we will have to reinforce the restrictions," Tope said.

Landmark of over 2.2 cr doses on PM's birthday

EXPRESS NEWSS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

INDIA on Friday set a record for daily Covid-19 vaccinations with nearly 2.27 crore doses administered by 10.30 pm, as state governments responded to a call given by the Union health ministry to mark PM Narendra Modi's 71st birthday as 'vaccine sewa day'. By the end of the day, this figure was likely to near the 2.5 crore mark.

Globally, as per information available, the record of maximum vaccinations on a day is held by China, which had administered 2.45 crore shots.

The Co-Win dashboard maintained by the Centre showed that the high inoculations were largely driven by Karnataka, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh. Shots were given at more than 1 lakh vaccination sites — the highest ever — across India on Friday. Majority of the vaccination sites were at government hospitals with the private sector contributing a minuscule number only.

Notably, in states such as West Bengal and Jhrakhand — both ruled by non-BJP governments and having a low percentage of population covered with at least one dose — there was no dramatic rise on Friday. Thus far, India had crossed the 1 crore a day mark three times, the first being August 27.

Ahead of the PM's birthday, several states had planned special vaccination drives and while the Gujarat government had declared its intention to administer over 35 lakh doses, the Assam government targeted 8 lakh. The Bihar government had said it would administer nearly 30 lakh doses on Friday.

As on Thursday, about 62% of the adult population in India had received at least one dose while only about 20% was fully inoculated. With high vaccination figures attained on Friday, these figures are set to rise by over two notches each.

NIA appeals to public to report suspected IS acts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

CONCERNED by 'increased social media activity by ISIS (also known as IS) sympathisers' and in view of the changing scenario in Afghanistan, the National Investigation Agency has made an appeal to the public to report any such suspicious activity.

Issuing a warning that the Islamic State is trying to 'spread its tentacles in India through continuous propaganda online,' the anti-terror agency has urged people to contact NIA at 011-24368800, if they notice any such activity on the internet.

A senior NIA official told this newspaper that ISIS-related suspicious online content has increased over the past few days and this is what has made the NIA issue a public appeal. The official said IS modules follow a pattern of targeting 'gullible' youth through social media platforms. "They are first targeted on open platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and if the IS modules notice encouraging responses, people are approached through private messages."

Asked if the agency has got to know of any social media activity by 25 ISIS suspects from India who are believed to be in Afghanistan, the official responded in negative.

Suspected ISIS activists arrested in New Delhi in August this year

The agency has, so far, investigated 37 cases of terror attacks, conspiracy and funding inspired by the IS ideology. The most recent case was probed in June and according to NIA, 168 persons have been arrested in such cases and 27 of the accused individuals have been convicted in IS-related cases.

A top security official said IS is emerging as a 'bigger threat' since the Taliban takeover of Afghanistan. "Although security agencies are monitoring online content, there is a concern of long dead terror cells getting reactivated," he said.

A home ministry official said threats of IS-related outfits strengthening its hold in India have increased.

MEETING DISCUSSES NATIONAL SECURITY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A high-level security meeting of intelligence agencies and the chiefs of anti-terror units from all states was held in the national capital on Friday to discuss India's concerns in the wake of Taliban's takeover of Afghanistan. The possibility of Pakistan exploiting the situation to cause trouble in India was discussed in details, sources said.

Indian agencies anticipate that Pakistan would eventually use Afghan soil to train terrorists of Lashkar-e-Taiba and Jaish-e-Mohammed to foment trouble in India, especially in Jammu and Kashmir. The meeting was held at the headquarters of Delhi Police, which comes under the the Union Ministry of Home Affairs. This is the first time that the Delhi Police's Special Cell was involved in such a high-level meeting discussing security matters of national concern.

Such meetings are otherwise restricted to participation from the Intelligence Bureau, Research and Analysis Wing, National Investigation Agency and other Central agencies. Heads of anti-terrorism squads from Jammu Kashmir, Mumbai, Kerala, Telangana, Punjab, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand also attended Friday's meeting.

A senior security official said that the purpose was to ensure better coordination and exchange of intelligence inputs among the security agencies, including Delhi Police which ensures law and order in the national capital. Threats of radicalisation, terror attacks and circulation of ISIS propaganda were key topics that were discussed in the meeting, the official said.

Lukewarm response to Cong call of nationwide stir against Centre

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

THE plan of the Opposition parties to launch a joint protest against the Modi government's policies from September 20-30, agreed upon after a meeting called by Congress chief Sonia Gandhi last month, has received lukewarm response. Some key regional players remain non-committal despite the Congress urging them to work with them.

One issue where the entire Opposition is on the same page is supporting the Bharat Bandh call given by farmer organisations on September 27 against the three farm laws. "These are more like individual (Congress) events planned by the respective parties, although farm laws are also part of key issues short-listed during the joint meet," said an Opposition party leader.

According to Congress sources, there has been no communication between the parties since then on and it is up to each player if they want to join the protest on mutually agreed issues at the August 20 meeting attended by leaders of 19 parties. Congress has issued a directive to state units to organise protests, sit-ins and marches at state, district and block levels against the policies of the government.

Key regional players like Trinamool Congress and the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) have not planned any protest during the 10-day period other than on September 27.

A RJD leader said the party is holding a training drive for cadres on September 21 and 22 and there are no protests planned from September 20.

Opposition-ruled states where Congress is in alliance — like Maharashtra, Jharkhand and Tamil Nadu — would see primary alliance partners Shiv Sena, NCP, Jharkhand Mukti Morcha, DMK and the Left participate in protests on September 20.

QUOTA APPOINTMENTS

IITs gear up to fill reserved seats in faculties

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

PULLED up by the Centre for not ensuring enough representation of reserved categories in the faculties, many of the Indian Institutes of Technology (IIT) have begun the process of hiring under the quota through a special recruitment drive.

Figures show that less than 3% faculties in India's top engineering institutions are from SC/ST categories. As per information available, of the 6,043 faculty members at the 23 IITs, 149 are from the SC and 21 from ST, which means around 2.8% of the faculty members come from reserved categories. Some of the institutions, shockingly, had no representation of ST category candidates.

The Centre mandates a reservation of 27% in faculty positions for candidates from OBC categories, 15% from SC and 7.5% from ST communities. The IITs, apart from some other set of autonomous institutions such as IIMs, have traditionally been resisting, arguing that such appointments mar the quality of teaching.

However, now urged by the Union education ministry, at least four IITs — Bombay, Kharagpur, Ropar and BHU — have published advertisements inviting applications from the reserved category candidates under a special recruitment drive. Applications have been invited for posts in assistant, associate and professor levels in various departments. The IITs are looking for candidates with PhD with first-class in the preceding degree in the appropriate branch along with a sound academic record.

For assistant professors, a minimum of three years of experience in teaching, research or industry is preferred.

Until 2019, reservations were only applicable for recruitment of assistant professors, which is the entry level. But norms were changed that year, officials in the ministry's higher education department said.

"However, as IITs do not have promotions and each position is filled as a fresh recruitment, this means assistant professors at an institute have to apply for recruitment as an associate professor and compete with other candidates," pointed out a source. "This also results in disadvantage to reserved category candidates."

Last year, a Parliamentary panel had criticised the poor representation of reserved quota candidates in Centrally Funded Technical Institutes. In August, a letter to these institutes said all vacancies in reserved categories should be filled by September next year.

Child marriages illegal, but Rajasthan passes bill to register them

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE Rajasthan government on Friday weathered a stormy Assembly session to pass a Bill making the registration of child marriages mandatory. Sparks flew in the House when the Opposition BJP questioned why should child marriages be registered when they are illegal and walked out after its demand for division vote was not met.

While the Opposition questioned the rationale behind the Bill, the Congress government said it was in line with a 2006 Supreme Court judgment (Seema vs Ashwini Kumar), making registration of all marriages mandatory. Parliamentary Affairs Minister Shanti Dhariwal said registration of child marriages did not imply they would be considered valid.

According to the new law, marriage registration officer will register marriages at the block level. If a girl's age is less than 18 years and a boy is less than 21, then their parents are legally bound to inform the registration officer within 30 days of their marriage in a prescribed format. These amendments have been incorporated to Section 8 of the Compulsory Registration of Marriages Act.

Earlier, marriage registration officers worked only at the district level.

> This is just to please the Jati Panches, which do not want to end child marriages. Jati Panches is a votebank no party wants to antagonise
>
> Activist

Dhariwal insisted that the Bill did not grant legitimacy to child marriages. He said action would be taken against those organising child marriages and minors would be empowered to annul it, if they so desire, on attaining majority.

The provisions were opposed not only by the BJP MLAs, but also by pro-Congress Independent MLA Sanyam Lodha. Many BJP MLAs, including Leader of Opposition Gulab Chand Kataria and Rajendra Rathod, said registering child marriages was a clear violation of the Sharda Act, which was passed to uproot the social evil.

Apart from the Opposition, social activists also panned the Bill, claiming it laid bare the 'double standards of the government'.

Dr Kriti Bharti, managing director of Jodhpur-based Saarthi Trust, which has got dozens of child marriages annulled in recent years, said: "At a time when all countries are attempting to uproot the menace, the Rajasthan government is making efforts to promote it."

Temple, holiday in SP's outreach to Vishwakarmas

Attacks Yogi government for removing Vishwakarma Jayanti from state holiday list

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Lucknow

CLAIMING that by pruning Vishwakarma Puja off the list of state holidays, the state government had insulted the eponymous community, Samajwadi Party (SP) chief Akhilesh Yadav on Thursday said he would build a grand temple to honour the deity on the bank of river Gomti.

The Vishwakarma community outreach is seen as part of the SP's overdrive to cobble together an Opposition of small regional and community-based outfits to take on the BJP's electoral machine in the 2022 Assembly polls.

> There is also a training institute for the BJP people and it teaches them to spread lies. By dropping Vishwakarma Jayanti holiday, the chief minister has insulted the Vishwakarma community
>
> Akhilesh Yadav

Akhilesh slammed the ruling BJP for insulting the Vishwakarma community by dropping Vishwakarma Jayanti holiday and said he would restore it if his party came to power. He was addressing a gathering during a Vishwakarma Jayanti programme organised by the All India Vishwakarma Mahasabha at the SP office in Lucknow.

After assuming charge, CM Yogi Adityanath had shortened the list of state holidays. Among the holidays dropped was the Vishwakarma Jayanti. Adityanath had said schools and offices should be opened on those days and programmes should be organised to make people aware of the contributions made by those personalities.

"There is also a training institute for the BJP and it teaches them to spread lies. By dropping Vishwakarma Jayanti holiday, the CM has insulted the Vishwakarma community. It was our SP government that had announced a holiday on Vishwakarma Puja. Hanuman's mace and Krishna's wheel were made by Vishwakarma community...," said Akhilesh.

Later, the SP chief attacked the government for failing to mitigate the rain situation. "There was heavy damage to property and loss of life. The government has not made any arrangements. This government is about to leave, it will be wiped out. Every section of the society has been humiliated by this government. It has made a record of lies," Akhilesh said.

Parents can't object to inter-faith marriage: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Lucknow

GRANTING protection against harassment to a Gorakhpur-based interfaith couple, the Allahabad High Court on Thursday said adults had the right to choose their life partners, irrespective of religion, and added even their parents could not object to their relationship.

The court was hearing a petition filed jointly by Shifa Hasan and her Hindu partner. The division bench, comprising Justice Manoj Kumar Gupta and Justice Deepak Verma, observed it was beyond dispute that two adults had the right of choice of their matrimonial partner irrespective of the faith. "As the present petition is a joint petition by the two individuals who claim to be in love with each other and are majors, therefore, in our considered opinion, nobody, not even their parents, could object to their relationship," the judges said.

The petitioners had contended they were in love with each other and were living together of their own will. Their relationship was not being accepted by some of their family members and they were disturbing them. The court directed the Gorakhpur police to ensure the petitioners were not subjected to any harassment by the father of the girl or by any other person.

Shifa submitted before the court she had filed an application for conversion from Muslim to Hindu religion. As per her statement, the district magistrate of Gorakhpur had called for a report from the police station concerned. As per police report, while the boy's father was not agreeable to the marriage, his mother was accommodating. However, Shifa's parents were opposed to the marriage.

Consequently, the couple approached the High Court claiming a threat to their life. The court granted them protection, but clarified its order was not any final opinion regarding the age of the petitioners as the findings were only prima facie for the purposes of deciding the issue regarding protection of the petitioners' lives. Shifa is 19 while Deepak is 24.

Kill farm laws at once, Punjab CM tells Centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chandigarh

A year after the Centre passed the three controversial farm laws, Punjab Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Friday demanded that the legislations be scrapped immediately and the Centre hold talks with farmers to find a solution to their problems.

Wearing a '#nofarmers_nofood' badge, the Punjab CM said it was time the Centre relaised its blunder. He said the governmnet must withdraw the farm laws in the interest of farmers and the nation as a whole.

He was inaugurating the third state-level virtual Kisan Mela, organised by the Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana. "Till date, the Indian Constitution has been amended as many as 127 times, so why can it not be amended once again to scrap the farm laws and to resolve the imbroglio resulting from them?" asked the Chief Minister. "What is the problem in doing it a 128th time?" he asked.

Meanwhile, Shiromani Akali Dal President Sukhbir Singh Badal, former Union minister Harsimrat Kaur Badal and twelve other SAD leaders were held as they led a protest march in Delhi to mark the first anniversary of the passage of three farm laws.

Naga traders protest taxation by armed groups

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR
@ Guwahati

TRADERS in Nagaland have confronted the state government over collection of "taxes" by armed groups. Shops and commercial establishments across the state remained closed on Thursday, protesting the state government's inaction against armed groups.

Businesses owners in the state say they are having to pay multiple taxes, sometimes to as many as 10 armed groups, including the well-known factions of National Socialist Council of Nagaland/Nagalim or NSCN.

For years, the traders and business owners quietly paid taxes to the armed groups over fears for their life. Now, they have started speaking up. There is hardly any action from the government against the armed groups collecting taxes, traders say.

The Confederation of Nagaland Chamber of Commerce and Industry (CNCCI) asked the state government to act. "We have asked the government to clarify if this is legal or illegal. If the government says this is illegal, it has to control this with the help of resources and manpower that it has at its disposal. If the government says it is legal, we have to increase the prices of commodities manifold because we have to survive," CNCCI chairman Khekugha Muru told this newspaper.

STONE LAID FOR ₹40-CR PUNDIT TRANSIT CAMP IN BARAMULLA

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE Centre has decided to construct ₹40-crore worth transit camp to accomodate 336 returning Kashmiri Pandit families in north Kashmir's Baramulla district.

The foundation stone for the transit camp, spread over 50 kanals of land, was laid by Union Minister of AYUSH, Ports, Shipping and Waterways Sarbananda Sonowal at Khawajabagh in Baramulla on Friday.

Talking to reporters, Sonawal said a very significant step has been taken by the Centre for Kashmiri Pandits, who wants to return to Kashmir and live here peacefully.

After the eruption of militancy in J&K in 1989, the Pandits migrated in large numbers from the Valley. They are presently living in Jammu and other parts of the country. The transit camp being built at Baramulla can accommodate as many as 336 families. Every family would get a one-BHK flat.

Sonawal said Kashmiri people are also looking forward to the return of the Pandits and the transit camp is being set up as per the aspirations of the local people too.

He said several concrete measures have been taken to ensure a smooth return and rehabilitation of the Pandits so that they live in their homeland in peace and harmony.

Sonawal, the former Assam Chief Minister, said people of Kashmir have an accommodative nature. "The time has come when the people of different faiths and beliefs live with peace and prosperity."

In July, the Lieutenant Governor's administration approved the transfer of land in five districts of the Valley for the construction of 2,744 flats.

The locations include Marhama-Bijbehara in Anantnag district, Wandhama-Lar in Ganderbal district, Fatehpora in Baramulla district, Allowpora-Keegam in Shopian district, Odina-Sumbal in Bandipora district and Khullangam Bagh in Kupwara district. A total of 1,680 units would be constructed to accommodate the migrants with the highest number of 480 units coming up in Bandipora.

Chardham Yatra likely from today with restrictions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Dehradun

UTTARAKHAND state government on Friday issued standard operating procedures (SOP) for Char Dham Yatra which will resume on Saturday.

Ravinath Raman, commissioner of Garhwal division and chief executive officer of Char Dham Devsthanam Board said, "The SOP has been issued and the yatra will commence from Saturday. We have all arrangements in place for safe Char Dham Yatra."

According to the SOP, the number of daily pilgrims is capped at 1,000 in Kedarnath, 800 in Badrinath, 600 in Gangotri and 400 in Yamunotri.

The pilgrims willing to visit any of the four shrines will need full vaccination certificate or Covid-19 negative certificate not older than 72 hours. However, pilgrims from Kerala, Madhya Paresh and Maharashtra will have to fulfill both the requirements to visit to any of the four shrines.

The SOP stated that those travelling from outside the hill state will have to register on smarty city portal (www.smartcity.uk.gov.in) while residents of Uttarakhand will not have to register on the portal.

E-passes will be issued to pilgrims after they register on the website of the Char Dham Devsthanam Board (www.badrinath-kedarnath.gov.in).

TMC-led civic body puts off opening of quarantine centres until after bypoll

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

THE chief health officer of the Trinamool Congress-led Kolkata Municipal Corporation in a recent advisory said institutional quarantine and safe home services may be reopened in the municipality after September 30—the day when the high-decibel by-election is scheduled to be held in south Kolkata's Bhowanipore.

"Institutional quarantine and Safe Home services may be reopened if required (but after 30.09.2021 after Bhowanipore Assembly Election) to contain Covid situation in Kolkata during and after Durga and Kali pujas," reads the advisory.

It comes amid a rise in Covid cases in the West Bengal capital.

The Covid advisory mentioning the bypoll date has made some TMC leaders uneasy. They feel the BJP may now capitalise on this and demand that the election, which Trinamool supremo Mamata Banerjee must win to continue as CM, be put off.

"The BJP was against the by-election citing the pandemic. But, she needs to get elected as an MLA within November 5 to continue as CM, and if the by-election is deferred, she will have no option but to step down from the post of state CM," said a senior TMC leader.

"No one knows what will be the pandemic situation a week from now. How can we set up a time frame for opening quarantine centres and safe home facilities?" asked an official of the state health department. The advisory did not miss the BJP's attention. The party's Bengal chapter said it shows the state government is trying to distort the true picture. "If quarantine centres and safe homes are reopened before the bypoll, the question of conducting the election amid the pandemic may be raised. This why the advisory clearly mentioned the facilities can be reopened after the by-election," said a BJP leader.

Taliban order male kids, teachers to school

ISTANBUL

THE Taliban's education ministry says all male students grades six to 12 and male teachers should resume classes starting Saturday. The statement published on Facebook on Friday did not include girls of that age, and the lack of guidance highlighted ongoing concerns that the Taliban might impose restrictions on girls and women. The Taliban previously allowed girls in grades one to six to resume their classes. In the past, the hardliner group that took over Afghanistan last month had forbidden girls and women from attending school and work. In some of the provinces, women still are not allowed to continue their work, with exceptions for women who have worked in health departments, hospitals and education. AP

US reassures livid France after Australia scraps submarine deal

Australia shrugs off China anger, vowing to defend the rule of law in airspace and waters

WASHINGTON

THE United States is struggling to contain the fallout after France furiously protested Australia's scrapping of a major arms deal in favour of US nuclear submarines.

President Joe Biden on Wednesday unveiled a new three-way alliance among the United States, Australia and Britain that features the submarines — a key asset to challenge an increasingly assertive China in the decades to come.

China voiced anger — as did France, which called off a Washington gala to celebrate America's oldest alliance and accused Biden, in whom it placed high hopes, of being no different than his "America First" predecessor Donald Trump.

Foreign Minister Jean-Yves Le Drian said he was "very angry" over the loss of what he once called "the contract of the century," which was worth Aus$50 billion (31 billion euros, $36.5 billion) when signed in 2016. "This unilateral, sudden and unforeseeable decision very much recalls what Mr Trump would do," Le Drian told France Info radio.

On Australia, he said, "It's really a stab in the back. We had established a relationship of trust with Australia. This trust has been betrayed."

Meeting in Washington with his Australian counterpart, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken, a fluent French speaker who had prioritised building ties with Europe, said he considered France "a vital partner" and saw no "regional divide" between Atlantic and Pacific allies. "We want to find every opportunity now to deepen transatlantic cooperation in the Indo-Pacific and around the world," Blinken told reporters. He said that the United States has been in contact with France over "the last 24-48 hours" to discuss the row.

A French embassy spokesman, however, said that contact came only after news had begun to leak in the press. The embassy said it was scaling back commemorations on Friday of France's role in a decisive American Revolution naval battle, with a gala at the ambassador's residence cancelled.

Despite the French anger, the submarine contract had been proving increasingly contentious in Australia in part due to cost overruns.

Australian Defense Minister Peter Dutton, speaking in Washington, said that the country's existing submarines would only provide an edge into the 2040s and that military chiefs recommended switching to nuclear-powered versions. "In the end the decision that we have made is based on what is in the best interest of our national security," Dutton said, calling France's offer "not superior" to the nuclear submarines operated by the United States and Britain. Australia will become only the second nation after Britain to access US nuclear technology for the submarines. Dutton said it was also open to increasing rotations of US troops. Prime Minister Scott Morrison earlier said that Australia would acquire long-range US Tomahawk cruise missiles.

Australia has come under intense diplomatic pressure from China, the key market for its agricultural and mineral exports, over its close alliance with the United States. AFP

FRANCE SAYS CAN'T TRUST AUSTRALIA

Paris: France's European Affairs Minister Clement Beaune said on Friday the country was unable to trust Australia in talks on forging a trade deal with the EU, after Canberra ditched a deal to buy French submarines in favour of US vessels. Paris, which has called the Australian decision a "stab in the back", appeared to issue a threat that it could affect far-reaching trade talks.

- The United States and Britain "are using nuclear exports for geopolitical gaming tools and applying double standards which is extremely irresponsible," Chinese foreign ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said in respons to the deal.
- Lijian called on the pair, along with Australia, to "shake off their cold war mentality and do more to contribute to peace & stability."

The deal is not aimed at holding anyone back. It is [about] ... upholding the rules-based int'l order that both Australia & the US deeply believe in — Antony J Blinken, US Secretary of State

S Africa court rejects ex-prez's application to rescind jail term

JOHANNESBURG

SOUTH AFRICA'S top court on Friday rejected former president Jacob Zuma's application to rescind his 15-month-jail sentence for contempt of court.

Zuma handed himself over in July after the Constitutional Court found him to be in contempt of court for repeatedly refusing to return to the Commission of Inquiry into State Capture, where several witnesses have given details of his alleged role in a number of issues relating to the looting of state departments and parastatal organisations.

In a majority judgement of the Constitutional Court, Judge Sisi Khampepe dismissed 79-year-old Zuma's application of rescission with costs.

Commenting on Zuma's conduct, Khampepe said that he had wilfully refused to participate in litigation and then reopened the case when it suited him.

"The majority emphatically reject any suggestion that litigants can be allowed to butcher of their own will judicial process which in all respects has been carried out with the utmost degree of regularity, only later to plead the absent victim," Khampepe said.

The former president started his sentence on July 7 this year and was granted a controversial medical parole barely a month later.

The parole is being challenged by several institutions after it was found that the parole had been granted by a senior official of the Department of Correctional Services who had been appointed by Zuma during his tenure as president, not by the Parole Board. PTI

Woman in the docks for killing 3 kids in NZ

WELLINGTON

A 40-YEAR-OLD woman was charged on Friday with killing three young girls in a crime that has shocked New Zealand.

Police did not immediately identify the woman but the Stuff news agency said she was the girls' mother, Lauren Dickason, a doctor who had just moved to New Zealand from South Africa along with her daughters and husband Graham Dickason, an orthopedic surgeon. Emergency services said that when they responded to an incident at the home in the South Island town of Timaru they found a woman, who was hospitalised in stable condition.

Police said the woman killed twin 2-year-old girls Maya and Karla and their 6-year-old sister Liane. Police said they had earlier given incorrect ages for the girls. The family had reportedly moved into the housing for medical professionals near the Timaru Hospital just less than a week earlier. Before that, as new arrivals to the country, they would have been required to spend two weeks in a coronavirus quarantine hotel. AP

Anti-Kremlin app 'censored' amid polls

MOSCOW

ALLIES of jailed Kremlin critic Alexei Navalny accused Apple and Google of "censorship" on Friday after they removed opposition voting apps at the start of a three-day parliamentary election in Russia. Polls opened across the vast country on Friday after a year that saw a crackdown on President Vladimir Putin's opponents.

As voters began to make their way to the polls on a cold Moscow morning, the opposition said a "Smart Voting" app giving advice on how to vote had been removed from the app stores of both Apple and Google. "They caved in to the Kremlin's blackmail," Leonid Volkov, an exiled aide to Navalny, said on Telegram, after Moscow accused the US tech giants of election interference and demanded they remove the app.

Navalny ally Ivan Zhdanov accused the companies of a "shameful act of political censorship", posting a screenshot on Twitter of an email from Apple saying the app was removed because Navalny's organisation has been declared "extremist".

The Kremlin welcomed the move, saying the tech giants had conformed with "the letter and spirit" of Russian law.

The app instructed Russians on how to vote strategically to try to defeat politicians from Putin's United Russia party, after candidates critical of the Kremlin were largely barred from running in the vote.

The election for seats in the lower house State Duma, which runs until Sunday, comes after a year that has seen Navalny jailed, many of his allies arrested and his organisations banned.

In a video ahead of the vote, Putin said he was counting on voters to make "responsible, balanced and patriotic" decisions. While the 68-year-old remains broadly popular, United Russia has seen its popularity drop as living standards decline in a pandemic-induced economic slump. AFP

Unmarried woman in Beijing sues hospital for right to freeze her eggs

BEIJING

AFTER almost two years, an unmarried woman suing for the right to freeze her eggs in Beijing is getting her case heard in court on Friday in a rare legal challenge against the country's restrictions on unmarried women in reproductive health.

Teresa Xu has been waiting since December 2019 for her second hearing at the Chaoyang People's Court in Beijing. She is suing Beijing Obstetrics and Gynecology Hospital at Capital Medical University, a public hospital that forbid her from freezing her eggs, citing national law. Xu's victory could mark an important step for unmarried women in China who want to access public benefits. Unlike in the US, though, court judgements in China do not rely on precedence.

Her case is getting heard after the latest census data showed that population growth was slowing, while the proportion of elderly people was growing.

The number of newborns had fallen every year since 2016. National level statistics showed that 12 million babies were born in 2020, down 18% from 14.6 million in 2019. Beijing has responded by allowing families to have a third child.

For decades, China had instituted a 'one-child' policy. It eased the curbs to allow families to have two kids, although that did not change the slowing of population growth. AP

Online food delivery apps come under GST

Delivery apps to collect and deposit GST with the govt, instead of what is currently done by restaurants, says FM

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ Lucknow

THE GST council in its 45th meeting has decided that online food delivery firms Swiggy and Zomato will now have to pay good and services tax.

"Yes there was detailed discussion... the place where food is delivered is going to be the point where tax will be collected. They will pay the GST on it," finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman told the media.

She however clarified that this will be no new tax.

She explained that the purpose was to ask food delivery apps to collect and deposit GST with the government, instead of what is currently done by the restaurants.

"With food delivery app under GST, a high level of tax evasion will be curbed. He said that food delivery is a service and therefore ought to be brought under the purview of GST," CAIT Secretary General Praveen Khandelwal said.

The reasoning given was that many restaurants were not depositing GST with the government, while some were not even registered, Sitharaman said. "The decision to make food aggregators pay tax on supplies made by restaurants from January 1, 2022 seems to have been done based on empirical data of under reporting by restaurants, despite having collected tax on supplies of food to customers. The impact on the end consumer is expected to be neutral where the restaurant is a registered one. For those supplies from unregistered, there could be a 5% GST going forward. Details on this are awaited," Mahesh Jaising, Partner, Deloitte India said.

Experts say different food items invite different slabs.

"The proposal of this nature could typically be implemented in two manners. Option 1, the food aggregator would charge GST and restaurant would not. This would be similar to cab aggregators and under this option, the restaurant would need to have separate invoicing system – one for supplies in the restaurant and the other, through aggregators. Option 2, could be that the restaurants continue to charge GST and the aggregator be treated as a deemed supplier (and buyer). Here credit would need to be claimed by the aggregator," Jaising explained.

PHILIPPINE CENTRAL BANK TEMPERS OUTLOOK FOR 2021

The Philippine central bank on Friday revised its current account surplus projection for this year to $3.5 billion, or 0.9% of the gross domestic product, down substantially from a June forecast of $10 billion, or 2.5% of GDP. It now projects next year's current account to switch to a deficit of $1.4 billion, or 0.3% of GDP, instead of the previous forecast of a $6.7 billion surplus equivalent to 1.5% of GDP, figures presented at a media briefing showed. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) said the latest projections took into account "downside risks" that continue to build up, underpinned by the emergence of highly transmissible Covid variants. The balance of payments this year is now projected to yield a surplus of $4.1 billion, or 1.1% of GDP, down from the previous forecast of a $7.1 bn, or 1.8% of GDP. For 2022, the BOP surplus is seen narrowing to $1.7 billion, or 0.4% of GDP, lower than the previous forecast of $2.7 bn, or 0.6% of GDP. The BSP also lowered its projections for end-2021 and end-2022 gross international reserves to $114 bn and $115 bn, from $115 bn and $117 bn, respectively.

INDONESIA

INDONESIA EXTENDS TAX BREAK FOR SMALL CAR SALES

Indonesia has reinstated a temporary luxury-tax break on sales of smaller cars as the concession helped boost demand for vehicles, the finance ministry said on Friday. The tax break, which had expired in August, will now be available till the end of the year, the ministry said in a statement. Japanese brands such as Toyota, Daihatsu, Mitsubishi and Honda dominate Indonesia's domestic car market, Southeast Asia's biggest. Indonesia's biggest listed car distributors are Astra International and Indomobil Sukses Internasional. Sedans and two-wheel drive cars with engine capacity under 1,500 cc will now be exempt from luxury tax until the year-end. The ministry did not provide an estimate of revenue loss from the tax break. The government introduced the tax break in March to incentivise car purchases, which had been hit by an economic slowdown due to the impact of the coronavirus pandemic. It was initially due to expire in June, but was extended until end-August. Auto production rose 49% in January-July on a yearly basis, not just for domestic market but also exports, the ministry said.

CHINA

CHINA APPLIES TO JOIN PACIFIC TRADE PACT

Japan said it would have to determine if China meets the "extremely high standards" of the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership (CPTPP) after the world's second-biggest economy formally applied to join. Commerce Minister Wang Wentao submitted China's application to join the free trade agreement in a letter to New Zealand's trade minister, Damien O'Connor, the Chinese ministry said in a statement late on Thursday. The CPTPP was signed by 11 countries including Australia, Canada, Chile, Japan and New Zealand in 2018. Before that, it was known as the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) and seen as an economic counterweight to China's influence. Japan, the CPTPP's chair this year, said it would consult with member countries to respond to China's request, but stopped short of signalling a timeline for doing so. The TPP was central to former US President Barack Obama's strategic pivot to Asia but his successor, Donald Trump, withdrew from the pact in 2017. Accession to the CPTPP would be a boost for China following the signing of the 15-nation Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) free trade deal last year.

Aviation stocks flying high as travellers return; IndiGo up 11% to hit new peak

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AVIATION stocks rallied on Friday as air traffic continued to improve from the lows of first and second Covid-19 waves. Shares of aviation companies had nose-dived last year when the government had banned flights from late March 2020 to late May 2020 to control the spread of coronavirus.

Interglobe Aviation, operator of India's largest airline IndiGo, gained for the fourth consecutive session on the BSE and touched a fresh all-time high of ₹2,243 on Friday.

It closed on Friday at ₹2197, up over 11% from Thursday's closing. In the last five seasons, IndiGo has rallied 17.50%. Similarly, shares of SpiceJet rose up to 7.9% to ₹81.95 intraday. However, it settled 3.42% higher at ₹78.55.

This surge in aviation stock came after the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) reported that 67.01 lakh domestic passengers travelled by air in August, 33.83% higher than 50.07 lakh in July.

IndiGo alone carried 38.16 lakh passengers in August, a 57% share of the domestic market while SpiceJet flew 5.84 lakh passengers, accounting for a 8.7% share. Passenger load factor, a measure of how much of an airline's passenger carrying capacity has been used, also improved to 11.8% for IndiGo and 6.7% for SpiceJet in August from the previous month

"With the gradual resumption of economic activities and restrictions or lockdowns being lifted across the globe, the demand in this sector is expected to bounce back in the coming quarters," said Likhita Chepa, Senior Research Analyst, CapitalVia Global Research.

American Express onboards 80k small retailers to target customer acquisitions

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

GLOBAL financial services firm American Express has roped in 80,000 small merchants for its 2021 Small shops inititiave, which will be live till October 31. The move comes after the Reserve Bank of India lifted the restrictions on Amex from new customer acquisitions after temporarily barring the global firm over data localization norms compliance.

Manoj Adlakha, Senior Vice President and CEO, Amex Banking Corp India, India told TNIE in an exclusive interaction that the financial services corporation is bullish on the Indian market, especially in the fintech space despite the Covid second wave denting consumer spending."We see spending back on the track and this will be translated into aggressive growth across the payments system," Adlakha said. Amex had earlier stated that it partially resumed its business in India from August 7 and will strictly abide by the RBI norms.

With festive season in India around the corner, the number of merchants being onboarded this year is 2x compared to 2020 (40,000), a move aimed to incentivise consumer spending at small businesses and help them recover from the impact of pandemic.

"This year, we are providing 50% cashback offers to card holders throughout our Small Shops campaign limited to five transactions in-store. This will be implemented across cities like Delhi NCR, Mumbai, Bengaluru, Chennai, Pune, and Hyderabad covering supermarkets, retail shops, healthcare services, bakeries, beauty salons, travel and utilities, electronics, restaurants, and hotels," Adlakha added.

Wholesale price of edible oil shows declining trend, says govt

PTI @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Friday said prices of eight types of edible oils in the wholesale markets across the country are showing a declining trend over the last week after it took several measures to boost domestic supply and curb hoarding.

The wholesale prices of groundnut, mustard oil, vanaspati, sunflower oil, palm oil, coconut oil and sesame oil declined during the week ended September 14, it said in a statement. According to Consumer Affairs Ministry, the wholesale price of palm oil fell 2.50% to ₹12,349 per tonne as on September 14 from ₹12,666 per tonne a week ago.

While wholesale price of sesame oil slipped 2.08% to ₹23,500 per tonne, coconut oil eased by 1.72% to ₹17,100 per tonne. Similarly, wholesale rate of sunflower oil fell 1.30% to ₹15,965 per tonne as on September 14 from ₹16,176 per tonne a week ago. WTO pact on agriculture biased: India

PTI @ New Delhi

THE Agreement on Agriculture at the WTO was riddled with deep imbalances, which favour the developed countries and have tilted the rules against many developing countries, Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal has said.

He said that historical asymmetries and imbalances must be corrected to ensure a rule-based, fair and equitable order. Goyal said this while addressing the G-33 Virtual Informal Ministerial Meeting.

It was organised by Indonesia on Thursday to discuss the agricultural priority issues of G-33 and the way forward for the 12th Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organisation (WTO), scheduled to be held from November 30 to December 3 this year, an official statement said on Friday.

Out of a total of 47 G-33 members, representatives from 21 countries . took the floor to make the brief intervention. In his intervention, Goyal said G-33 must strive for positive outcomes on a permanent solution to public stockholding for food security purposes.

APPLIANCES FIRMS CASHING IN ON FESTIVITY WITH MORE DISCOUNTS

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

HOME appliances firms are set to offer higher discounts to capture a significantly higher anticipated demand during the festive season as compared to last year.

Candes will offer discounts up to 75% to customers for bulk as well as retail purchases, almost double than the previous season of 40%.

Vipin Aggarwal, Co-founder, Candes, said, "This season we expect the sales to touch higher numbers since the offers are higher. Shoppers often spend inexorably throughout festive sales and we want our customers to get bigger benefits from this."

Consumers are turning to home appliances to ease their daily chores, while managing their work from home life, says Pradeep Bakshi, MD & CEO at Voltas. "This festive season, we anticipate an uptick in health and hygiene products like air purifiers, air conditioners, refrigerators and dishwashers, as many customers would look to invest, upgrade or even replace existing appliances," he said.

Voltas presented a combination of offers with cashback up to 15%, 5-year comprehensive warranty and no-cost EMI schemes.

Despite concerns around the third Covid wave, double vaccination should help in driving consumer sentiment, says Kamal Nandi, Business Head and Executive Vice President - Godrej Appliances. "Festive season usually contributes 30% of annual sales for us. We are seeing encouraging signs of demand revival and are targeting a double-digit growth rate of 20%-plus during this festive season," says Nandi.

'Centre should come up with research-linked incentives'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IF India needs to seek a global leadership role, the Union Government to provide R&D support in the form of research-linked incentive schemes in areas such as biosimilars and biologics, Biocon chief Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw stressed on Friday. The biotech industry has been looking for a research incentive to help the private sector research.

Speaking at a press conference, she said research will be the key for nonlinear growth and the government should focus on this. She also insisted that the Centre's Production Linked Incentive (PLI) scheme look at biopharma as an important sector "rather than just clubbing it as a large pharma requirement."

Citing the example of Korea, she said, "These countries are hugely investing in biopharma and vaccine manufacturing. I think India also needs to get that kind of incentive-linked scheme for biopharmaceutical manufacturing."

BCCI wants Kumble as Team India head coach

The office-bearers are unanimous in their decision to bring the former India captain back into the setup

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has reached out to former India captain Anil Kumble, who was denied extension as head coach by the Committee of Administrators in 2017, to reinstate him once the tenure of incumbent Ravi Shastri's end after the T20 World Cup.

It is understood that the BCCI office-bearers are unanimous in their decision to bring Kumble back into the set up as they believe he was given a raw deal. In 2017, despite enjoying a successful year-long stint with the Indian team, India captain Virat Kohli had earlier expressed strong reservations to Kumble's style of coaching and eventually, the former India captain quit saying the partnership with the Delhiite has become untenable.

However, the indications coming out of the BCCI is that the board wants Kumble to take over as they believe, his guidance will help India reach the next level. It is understood that the office-bearers also want to bring a strong personality into the dressing room as India are likely to have different captains for white-ball adn red-ball cricket.

With Shastri's tenure coming to an end, the BCCI had been look out for a new head coach and had even reached out to couple of players from overseas, who have already turned down the offer citing the life under bio-bubble. It is reliably learnt that a popular Australian coach, who had been in the running for the India coach job on a couple of occasions, expressed interest, only for the BCCI to turn down.

According to sources in the BCCI, the board seems to have even reached out to Rahul Dravid. However, Dravid has expressed his intention to stay and oversee the National Cricket Academy. It is only under these circumstance that the BCCI has reached out to Kumble. Since stepping down as head coach of the Indian team, Kumble is now involved with Punjab Kings at the IPL. Although Kohli expressed strong reservations about Kumble's style of functioning, several players in the dressing room are already looking forward to reuniting with him.

With India set to enter a transition mode after the T20 World Cup and two big global events lined up in the next two years, the BCCI believes it needs to get the house in order. More over, many believe it will also shift the power centre away from Kohli, who has more or less determined how the team has been run in the past five years.

Sharath new chairman of BCCI Jr selection committee

FORMER Tamil Nadu captain and middle-order batsman, Sridharan Sharath, was named the chairman of the junior national selection committee by the BCCI. Sharath replaces Aashish Kapoor. The other committee members are Kishan Mohan (North Zone), Ranadeb Bose (East Zone), Pathik Patel (West Zone) and Harvinder Singh Sodhi (Central).

Banned PUBG among 8 medal titles at Asiad

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

TITLES (MEDAL EVENTS)	TITLES (DEMONSTRATION)
Arena of Valor (Asian Games version), Dota 2, Dream Three Kingdoms 2, EA SPORTS FIFA branded soccer games, Hearthstone, League of Legends, PUBG (Asian Games version), Street Fighter V	AESF Robot Masters Powered by Migu, AESF VR Sports Powered by Migu

LAST Wednesday, the Olympic Council of Asia (OCA) announced eight eSports titles that will be at the Asian Games as medal events. The presence of two of the eight titles, PUBG and Arena of Valor, have caused confusion to Indian players because the games themselves are banned in India. Both PUBG and Arena of Valor were banned by the Indian government last year under Section A of the Information Technology Act. The government said apps like PUBG was a threat to India's 'sovereignty and integrity' when banning them with 116 other apps.

"(...) mining and profiling by elements hostile to national security and defence of India, which ultimately impinges upon the sovereignty and integrity of India, is a matter of very deep and immediate concern which requires emergency measures," the statement, put out by Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY), had said. Curiously, those two titles specifically say 'Asian Games version' so it may be an edition that may be available to play even in countries that have banned the apps. But there is no clarity yet on what 'Asian Games version' exactly entails. "We are waiting for the official clarity in terms of what shape and the format this would be," Lokesh Suji, director, Esports Federation of India, told this daily. "This is for PUBG and AOV because both are banned in India. Let's wait for the official announcement. We will know our stance once that comes.." That announcement will come from OCA.

While people in India cannot legally play PUBG, the game practically goes by a different name within the borders. It's called 'Battlegrounds Mobile India (BGMI)'. It debuted in India in July 2021, less than a year after PUBG was banned. Like every other sport, there will be a national qualifier to get to Hangzhou Games (Sep 10-25). Suji and ESFI are 'working through the process of figuring out the national qualifiers for all the titles'. The best in India will likely have to take part in regional qualifiers from where the winners will advance to China.

One of those who has a chance of making the final eSports contingent is Tirth Mehta. Mehta, who went to the Asiad in Jakarta, won a 'bronze' in Hearthstone, a card game. It wasn't counted as it was a demonstration sport then.

LOOKING TO CONTINUE FROM WHERE THEY LEFT OFF

When the IPL restarts in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) from Sunday, Delhi Capitals and Chennai Super Kings — first and second on the table — will be keen to get down to business as soon as possible to ensure they are there in the next phase of the competition. A look at how they are placed currently...

CHENNAI SUPER KINGS

STORY SO FAR

After a forgettable 2020 season, they roared back to their old self. Few rejigs at the top and the availability of all the players meant they were a force to reckon with. The plus point for the CSK has been their ability to click as a unit. From Ruturaj Gaikwad to Faf du Plessis, Moeen Ali, Ravindra Jadeja and Deepak Chahar, everyone has contributed so far. But returning to the UAE means it will be a challenge to adapt to their tracks. Need three wins to make it to play-offs.

DELHI CAPITALS

8 Matches played | 6 Matches remaining | 1 Current Position

After falling short in the 2020 edition, they looked set to go all the way before the league was paused. So how quickly they get the momentum back will determine how far they go this time. They do have the team to win. While the return of Shreyas Iyer will boost the team, Rishabh Pant will continue as captain. In Iyer's absence, the batting unit looked a bit too one-dimensional, but that will change now, which makes them even more powerful. Bowling, with the presence of R Ashwin, Kagiso Rabada, Anrich Nortje, will be hard to face in the UAE conditions.

Women wrestling camp in Delhi

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

UNLIKE the past, the women wrestlers will train at IG Stadium in New Delhi instead of Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, ahead of the World Championships scheduled in Oslo, Norway from October 2 to 10. The men wrestlers however, will camp at SAI centre in Sonepat as usual. The wrestlers, who were selected for the event during selection trials held on August 31, along with their coaches and other support staff have been asked to report to their respective venues on September 20. Interestingly, the WFI has yet not cleared the names of the sparring partners.

Long hours at work kill two million every year: UN

Exposure to long work timings, defined as anything over 55 hours a week, is a key risk factor; dramatic change in work culture blamed

Representative image

STUDY

GENEVA: Work-related illnesses and injuries kill nearly two million people annually, largely because of long working hours, the UN said Friday, warning the pandemic would surely worsen the situation.

The first-ever joint assessment by the UN's health and labour agencies of the global disease and injury burden linked to jobs stretches from 2000 to 2016, and does not include the dramatic shifts in working conditions brought on by the Covid-19 crisis.

Some 1.9 million deaths worldwide were officially linked to work-related causes in 2016, up slightly from 1.7 million at the turn of the century, according to the report, which cautioned these were surely underestimates.

Exposure to long working hours, defined as working 55 hours a week or more, was the key risk factor, and deemed responsible for some 750,000 deaths in 2016, the report said.

In all, the study examines 19 occupational risk factors, including exposure to carcinogens like asbestos, ergonomic factors like prolonged sitting and manual handling of loads.

After long working hours, workplace exposure to gases, fumes and other air pollution was seen as the top risk, responsible for some 450,000 deaths in 2016.

"It's shocking to see so many people literally being killed by their jobs," World Health Organization (WHO) chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said in a statement.

"Our report is a wake-up call to countries and businesses to improve and protect the health and safety of workers," he said.

The report found that diseases accounted for a full 82 percent of work-related deaths in 2016, with the greatest cause of death being chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, which killed 415,000 people that year.

That was followed by strokes, at 400,000, and ischaemic heart disease at 350,000. Occupational injuries were responsible for 18 percent of all work-related deaths, and were estimated to have killed 360,000 people in 2016. "These estimates provide important information on the work-related burden of disease, and this information can help to shape policies and practices to create healthier and safer workplaces," International Labour Organization chief Guy Ryder said in the statement.

On a positive note, the global death rate from work-related causes shrank by 14 percent over the 16-year-period covered in the report, although a growing global population meant the number of deaths remained about the same.

The decrease from 39.9 to 34.3 deaths per 100,000 working age people was possibly a reflection of improvements in workplace safety measures, the report said. But while there was a sharp drop in the number of deaths caused by occupational injuries, deaths linked to long working hours surged over the same period.

The death rate from heart disease associated with exposure to long working hours ballooned by 41 percent, while stroke deaths brought on by excessive work rose 19 percent, the report showed.

The pandemic significantly changed the way many people work. The sharp increase in teleworking is often blurring the boundaries between home and work

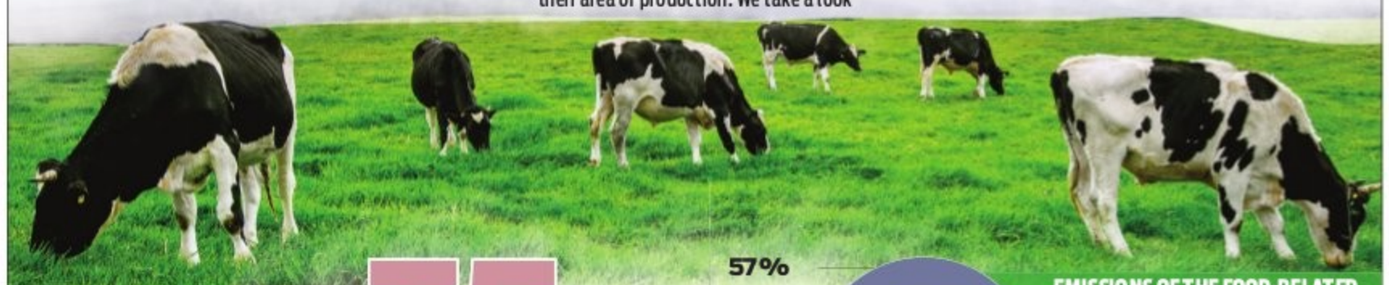
FARMING AND GREENHOUSE GAS EMISSIONS

Agriculture has been simultaneously threatened by climate change and has contributed to greenhouse gas emissions across the world, making it both a victim and a perpetrator of the climate crisis. A recent study published in Nature Food quantified the footprint of farming on the basis of food products and their area of production. We take a look



2X

Animal farming accounts for twice as many greenhouse gas emissions as plants grown for consumption of all human-caused emissions were produced by farming on land. The study analysed data from 2007 to 2013, and found that the emissions amounted to 17.318 billion metric tonnes of CO2 equivalent greenhouse gases per year

35%

EMISSIONS OF THE FOOD-RELATED INDUSTRY BY SECTORS

- 57% Animal-based foods (including crops grown to feed livestock)
- 29% Plants grown for human consumption
- 14% Other commodities like cotton and rubber (fisheries not included)

Source: Study on the journal Nature Food by Xiaoming Xu, Prateek Sharma et al.

Study methodology

Researchers including Xiaoming Xu & Prateek Sharma looked at CO2, methane and nitrous oxide released by food production and consumption from farming on land

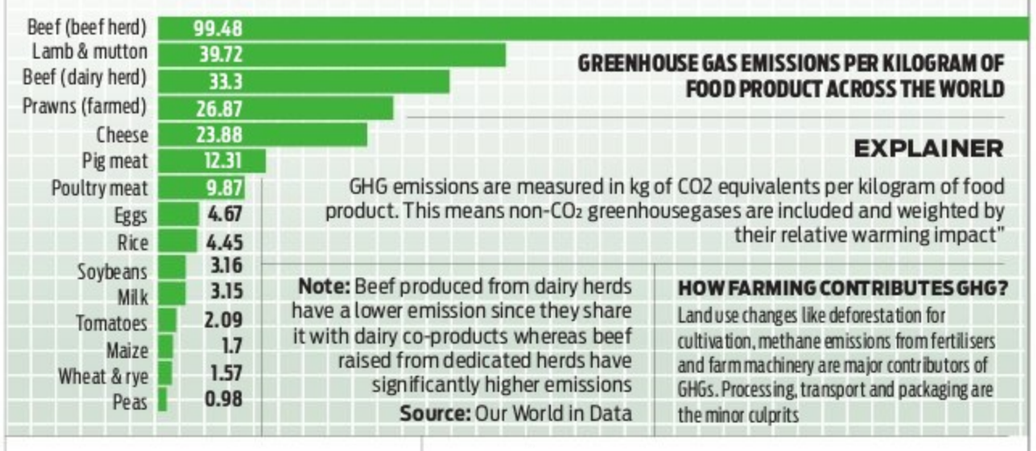
The study measured the impact of crops grown for human consumption and those grown for animal feed separately, and factored in things like transportation and trade

To calculate net emissions, they also accounted for the presence of plants that absorb carbon

The researchers broke down the globe's farmland into some 60,000 grid squares and determined what percentage of the area is allocated to crops, forests, and so on

The study modelled net emissions for over 170 plant and 16 animal products in nearly 200 countries

GREENHOUSE GAS EMISSIONS PER KILOGRAM OF FOOD PRODUCT ACROSS THE WORLD



EXPLAINER

GHG emissions are measured in kg of CO_2 equivalents per kilogram of food product. This means non-CO_2 greenhousegases are included and weighted by their relative warming impact"

Note: Beef produced from dairy herds have a lower emission since they share it with dairy co-products whereas beef raised from dedicated herds have significantly higher emissions

Source: Our World in Data

HOW FARMING CONTRIBUTES GHG?

Land use changes like deforestation for cultivation, methane emissions from fertilisers and farm machinery are major contributors of GHGs. Processing, transport and packaging are the minor culprits

WORST OFFENDERS

COMMODITIES: BEEF & RICE

Beef accounted for some 25 per cent of food emissions, and rice was the worst plant offender, which accounted for 12 per cent

REGIONS: S AMERICA AND SE ASIA

Cattle-farming in South America and rice cultivation in Southeast Asia were the biggest emitters of greenhouse gasses related to food production

EMISSIONS FROM OUR FOOD

On the whole, animal-based foods have a higher GHG footprint when compared to plant-based food

While 1 kg of peas emit just 1 kilogram of GHGs (CO_2 equivalent), the same quantity of beef produces more than 60 kg of GHGs

An analysis by Joseph Poore and Thomas Nemecek (2018), published in Science, also showed that 80% of the emissions from food is caused by land-use change and processes at the farm stage

STRIKING A CHORD

In his music video, artiste Thomas Itty brings alive the old-world charm of B'luru; song has gone viral on social media

SANATH PRASAD

THEY started by cutting the trees and building big factories." "My town's been rearranged." "Everything is changing in the blink of an eye." These are the lyrics of the remastered track of Thomas Itty's song titled Bangalore, which is now trending on WhatsApp groups and on old Bengaluru groups on social media. Itty, who lived in Bengaluru until he moved to New York in 1988, released his song earlier this week, hardly anticipating the overwhelming reaction.

"I sat down recently to give the song I wrote two years ago a new feel and style. I added a couple of tracks, made a video and uploaded it on Facebook on Sept 12. My friend shared it on WhatsApp groups and before I knew it, people from across the world were calling me. I, honestly, did not expect such a reception," says Itty, a marketing professional, adding that this song is inspired from his novel Bangalore Baloneys, which is a mix of music and literature.

From Rex Theatre on Brigade Road to the Cash Pharmacy building on St Mark's Road, Itty, a resident of Cambridge Layout, believes the 'town has been rearranged' and new Bengaluru lacks the old charm. "I grew up walking on Commercial Street, MG Road, Brigade Road, and used to cycle to Bishop Cotton Boys' School," says Itty, recalling that Bengaluru back in the day had large houses, empty lots and tonnes of greenery. With much change and heritage buildings dwindling, Itty's music is an attempt to strike a chord with old Bengalureans. "I really miss the Bangalore I grew up in which is what my song conveys too," says Itty, who also released a track to mark the 9/11 anniversary.

Itty believes that his songs are always introspective in style. Having had a keen interest in music since the age of 17, he continues to pursue it as a hobby. "I have been writing songs since my teens and my first album was titled the Dark Edge of the Light. I always adopted an introspective style of writing songs where I pen down my thoughts and add a universal aspect to it to make it relatable. The thought behind the latest release was the changing nature of Bengaluru and my love for the city," says Itty.

The song evokes a sense of nostalgia about bygone Bangalore days

Listening to the song I recalled old landmarks of B'lore. I feel hurt because all of us are responsible for what the city has come to today. Anil Kapur, joint MD, Rex Theatre

The song reminded me of my younger days when I sang a song called Bangalore Blues for my school band.

Prem Koshy, owner, Koshy's

This song evokes a sense of nostalgia. Lots of trees, empty roads and no traffic – that was Bangalore in the '70s.

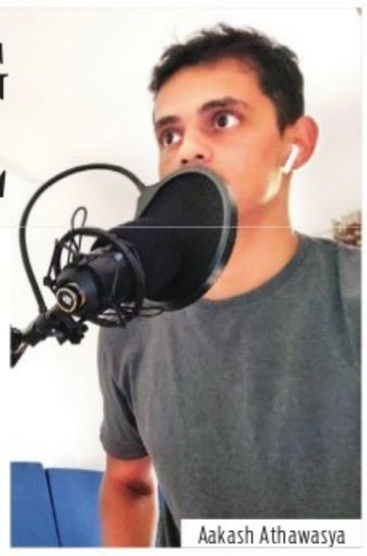
TALKING LOCAL

Arvind Krishna



Aakash Athawasya

Living in a cosmopolitan city like Bengaluru, many outsiders get by with two common words — Kannada gothilla. While that's changing with a growing emphasis on learning the language, two youngsters are taking a proactive step to help others pick up Kannada.

Arvind Krishna (26) and Aakash Athawasya (25) started a podcast called Kannada Gothilla in May 2021, because Athawasya wanted to learn the language. "We've lived in Bengaluru all our lives never having known the language. But recently, I've started feeling it's important to know the basics at least, which is when Krishna started helping me out," says Athawasya, a financial analyst, who met Krishna at an event three years ago. "We checked with our close friends and acquaintances who also felt a podcast would be a great way for them to learn as well," he adds.

In an eight to 15-minute podcast episode, the duo covers conversations one can have with delivery executives, auto drivers, bus conductors, and police persons among others. They even highlight Kannada movies one can watch for easy learning, what each household item is called, what to say if your car is towed and general conversations you can have at the office.

"We release new episodes thrice a week on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. From May, we've seen an increase of 10,000 followers which has been growing steadily. There's a pan-India and international audience as well," says Krishna, adding that a woman from Ireland who was in Bengaluru until a couple of months ago continues to listen to the podcast. "It's perhaps the on-the-go learning concept that's attractive to people. The conversations we have been uploading are basic ones, used in daily conversations. It's ideal for people who are working, studying or moving to the city," says Athawasya.

The duo uses social media to add not just the podcast but also interact with their listeners. They feel that perhaps outsiders don't make the attempt to learn the language because of "accommodating" nature of Bengalurens. "If you can't speak Kannada, they speak to you in a language that you will understand even though they are uncomfortable in it," says Krishna, who hopes that this initiative will help others experience the city like a true Bengalurean.

ON THE BRINK

Madhav Sehgal, Simran Sehgal and Meghna Trivedi Das. (Right) Yashodhara Marar

Good morning, Bangalore!

Yes! I am angry! I was angry at myself for letting a whole week go by and feeling miserable. I have been detached, moody and brooding. And what did that do for my mind-space? Zilch, nothing, nada! If anything, the pandemic should have taught me something. Every day is precious and a gift. Not for anyone else but for oneself. I had to paint myself into a corner, cry hot tears of anguish, feel terribly sorry for myself and ultimately crawl out of a self-pitying and dark head space to take a big gulp of air which I was fortunate enough to have!

Grateful for air, one asks? Of course! Ask those many people hooked up to ventilators and oxygen machines to tell you what they would give for that gulp. Human beings are complicated and difficult to understand. The ministrations of their mind are so convoluted, that I am sometimes forced to subscribe to the idea that 'all is not well with us'! We can be generous, good and giving as we can be mean-spirited, selfish and cruel. Only one thing is clear. 'One can be guilty of too much love and try to fix something... what we don't realise is that we get broken in the process'... I am a 'Rumi' in the making! When I get my sense of humour back, I start to think clearly and out of the box. I need a swift boot on the buttocks to set me straight for some time. All said and done... melancholy, despair and depression are real and omnipresent and should be dealt with as such. Sweeping it under the carpet can have disastrous consequences.

I met up with good friend Yashodhara Marar after ages. Her husband, Hari, runs our world-renowned BIAL airport. They have been extremely kind to me, especially during the midst of the pandemic, whenever I called them, panicking about cancelled flights (especially when my son flying into the city).

I went in for a sneak preview of the sarees and stoles she bought directly from the weavers. She and her for partners have founded 'Mrinalini', primarily to cut exploitation by commercial establishments who pay the weavers a pittance, but have a mark-up of over a hundred per cent on the merchandise. Without taking the name of the 'designer' (he has a tongue-twister for a name), and who rose from the ranks himself, marks up these weavers prices by over 400 per cent! So 'Mrinalini' endeavours to go from the weavers to the wearer directly, keeping the prices affordable. They are not a 'bleeding-heart' organisation and they do make a small profit in order to run the show. But the bulk of the money from orders goes to support the weavers. This is sustainability... to be able to help the exploited by running a long-term organisation sustainably. I am really happy that my friends like Prasad Bidapa and Kaveri Ponappa are doing their bit for the Indian weaver. Just to show support, I bought myself a fabulous Banarasi sari in ochre, with a red and gold border. My Bengali heart sang with joy!

Better moods deserve sustenance too, especially the eating and drinking variety. So it was a very pleasant surprise when the new GM of Leela Palace, Madhav Sehgal, invited us over to their iconic Indian restaurant to celebrate 20 years of its inception. It was an intimate group of friends who were all food aficionados and the laughter, conversations and ambrosia did not look like it would ebb.

The highlight of the afternoon was meeting the very humble master chefs, Purshothum Naidu and Farman Ali, who were responsible for the inception of this restaurant 20 years ago. It's all about commitment and sustainability through hardwork and focus. Chefs, weavers, artisans and performing artistes are all people who need the generosity, love and appreciation from their patrons for their craft and skill.

Yellow delight

Some relish it, some detest it. There are a wide variety of dishes you can make using the pineapple. Here are some you can try if you like the fruit

PINEAPPLE SALSA

Ingredients

- 2 cups finely-diced fresh pineapple
- 1/4 cup diced red pepper and tomatoes (each)
- 1/3 cup chopped onion
- 2 tbsp finely-chopped coriander leaves
- 1 tbsp finely-chopped mint leaves (optional)
- 1 tsp jeera powder
- 1/2 tsp red chilli flakes (optional)
- 1-2 tsp finely-chopped green chillies
- 2 tbsp lime juice
- 1-2 tsp sugar (optional)
- Salt to taste
- Nacho chips or crackers/ biscuit for serving

Method

Mix all the ingredients, place in the fridge for an hour to allow the flavours to marry.

Serve cold or at room temperature.

- Rupa Balachandar, (@riginalavirtual vegetarian)

PINEAPPLE PAYASAM

Ingredients

- 1 cup fresh pineapple, chopped finely
- 2 cups whole milk
- 1/2 cup sago
- 1/2 cup sugar (as per taste)
- Half a pinch of turmeric
- 2 tbsp + 1 tbsp ghee
- A few raisins and cashews

Method

In a heavy-bottom pan, heat 2 tbsp of ghee, half the amount of sugar. Add the chopped pineapple and turmeric and sauté it till the pineapple softens and cooks well.

Let the pineapple cool completely. Keep aside some pieces of pineapple and grind the rest into a coarse paste in a blender.

Pressure cook the sago with 2 cups of water and switch off after one whistle. Do not over cook as sabudana will completely dissolve.

In a heavy-bottom pan, boil the milk and let the milk reduce to half.

Once the milk is reduced and slightly thick, add the remaining sugar, cooked sabudana and give it a good mix.

Bring it to a boil and let it thicken.

Switch off the flame. Let the payasam cool for 15 mins.

Once it has cooled, add the pineapple pieces, the pineapple paste and give it a good mix.

Heat 1 tbsp of ghee in a small pan and add raisins and cashews to it. Once the cashews turn gold and the raisins plump up, add it to the payasam.

Refrigerate and serve cold.

- Madhuri Anand Kumar, (@msaggarwal)

PINEAPPLE POPSICLES

Ingredients

- 2 cups of pineapple, chopped
- 3 tbsp honey (as per taste)
- 1 tbsp freshly-squeezed lime juice
- 30ml Malibu Rum (optional)
- 3 tbsp fresh mint leaves
- 30 ml coconut mylk (first extract)

Method

Add all ingredients to a blender and grind it to a smooth juicy texture.

Transfer to a popsicle mould. Let it freeze for four hours and then insert the popsicle sticks.

Do not strain the juice as the pulpy mix is what makes this popsicle delicious.

Let this sit overnight in your deep freeze until completely chilled.

De-mould and serve.

Changing spirits

JANIN KANNOTH

(The writer is resident mixologist & beverage manager, URU Brewpark)

WITH Covid hitting the industry hard, lockdowns happening often enough, people are beginning to feel that they have to do everything differently, especially with the forced changes to the way things were. This has also percolated to their drinking habits and preferences.

Long gone are the times when consumers had no choice to choose the potency of their favourite cocktail in terms of the amount of various ingredients in it, especially the alcohol. With the global trend moving towards lower quantities of alcohol, more and more people are choosing to opt for cocktails with reduced alcohol. One of the primary reasons for this is, of course, the conscious lifestyle people are increasingly opting for. Globally, not only are more and more outlets introducing low-alcohol cocktails, but even brands are venturing into this space. For example, we have introduced the concept of customising one's cocktails, wherein the guest can choose the potency of their cocktail, ranging from mild to regular and strong. This has turned out to be quite popular, and in fact, we have seen a lot of guests who would have otherwise opted for a non-alcoholic drink now going for a mild cocktail. A lot of outlets are also reinventing classic cocktails as well as coming up with new innovations to woo the post pandemic customer. Some of these trends are:

1 Twists of cocktails are back with a futuristic approach. At our outlet, we have a separate cocktail category where classic recipes are given a twist to suit the modern taste of our guests.

2 Use of fresh ingredients to bring about a variation in classics. For instance, seasonal fruits in margaritas, edible flowers, spices, and the like are being experimented with.

3 Change in presentation and appearance of the drink with different glassware, coloured ingredients and garnishes.

With the pandemic allowing people to experiment with their drinks at home — with recipes available online and people adding their own creativity to the mix — bartenders are constantly experimenting with new flavours and addition of alcohol to traditional non-alcoholic beverages. Examples are Rasam vodka and Yelneer gin.

The shoot of Kabzaa, which was halted due to the pandemic, is expected to restart from September 21. "We will resume shoot in Bengaluru with a 40-day schedule, and we will later head to Hyderabad where we are planning to wrap up the film," says the director. Chandru adds that the sets created by art director Shiva Kumar will be one of the major attractions of Kabzaa.

When asked about the probable release date of the film, the director says, "With the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic, it isn't the right time to reveal a date."Kabzaa boasts of an ensemble cast including the likes of Jagapathi Babu, Rahul Dev, Anup Revanna, Kabir Duhan Singh, Danish Akhtar Saifi, Pradeep Rawat, Jayaprakash, and Kota Srinivas among others. Naina Ganguly

NAINA GANGULY MAKES HER KANNADA DEBUT WITH RAJAVARDAN'S PRANAYAM

The actor, who has made her mark in Bengali, Telugu, and Hindi films, talks about her stint in Sandalwood, and on working in a romantic family drama bankrolled by P2 Productions; she also shares her association with director Ram Gopal Varma

A SHARADHAA

NAINA Ganguly, the recent regular of Ram Gopal Varma is making her debut in Sandalwood. The actor, who has worked in Bengali, Telugu, and Hindi languages, will be debuting with Pranayam. She is paired opposite lead hero Rajavardan. This will be the latter's second project after Bichhugathii Chapter 1 - Dalavayi Dange.

Naina made the announcement via an Instagram post, which read "Script reading session of my upcoming project along with actor Rajavardan, and debutant director Dattatreya."

Sharing the details of the shoot with us, she said, "We will begin shooting in the next couple of days for a 15-day schedule," says the Dangerous actor. This project will be bankrolled by Paramesh of P2 Productions, who has previously bankrolled films including Ambari, Pallaki, Parijatha, O Gulabi, Ganapa, and Kariya 2.

Pranayam will also feature a comeback of Mungaru Male music director Mano Murthy and will have Nagesh Acharya as the cinematographer.

About shooting in a new language, "Being a Bengali, south Indian languages feel strange and challenging to me. It's going to be a new experience in Kannada for me. Thankfully, the producer, director and hero Rajavardan are being supportive and helping with the Kannada dialogues."

Rajavardan

For Naina, it is the plot that draws her, not the language. "Pranayam is a fresh story for me, being a family drama and it has great scope for performance. I have played challenging roles, but this film will bring out the performer in me."

She calls RGV a school, "He gives opportunities to all newcomers, and encourages artists from a non-filmy background. I can go on for hours talking about him, it is hard to restrict to a few sentences. I have learnt a lot under his guidance. If not for him, I wouldn't have come this far."

A FUN, EVEN IF SUPERFICIAL, RIDE

FREE GUY

Cast: Ryan Reynolds, Joe Keery, Jodie Comer, Taika Waititi, Lil Rel Howery

Direction: Shawn Levy

KIRUBHAKAR PURUSHOTHAMAN

IF you are just wondering if Hollywood is just mimicking Bollywood now, the answer is yes. We have no shame...no shame at all," said Ryan Reynolds in a promo of Free Guy. The idea is to sell this film to Indian audiences by publicising the similarities it apparently has with our mainstream cinema. I wish Ryan knew it's Indian cinema, not Bollywood though. Moving on, yes, there are glossy sets, an underdog hero pining for a girl out of his league, some cool action sequences, and the evil (or should I Indianise and say 'corporate') villain like in many of our mainstream films. Yet, the essence of Free Guy is more of its Hollywood counterparts like The Matrix, Ready Player One, etc, except that given it is an action-comedy, this universe is cheesier and more vibrant... It's about swings, bubblegum-flavoured ice cream, and everything nice.

Guy (Ryan Reynolds) is an NCP (Non-playable character) in the Free City game. For non-gaming comrades, who didn't graduate beyond GTA: Vice City like myself, he is one of those background characters we shot and punched for the fun of it. Guy is a bank teller, who is programmed to follow a routine in the universe, which is built for the heroes. One fine day, Guy meets the heroine Molotov Girl/ Millie Rusk (Jodie Corner) and starts having 'red pill' effects. She turns out to be Guy's dream girl, but he has to 'level up' to even talk to her. Now, the mission of Millie and the storyline in the real world reminded me of the director Shawn Levy's formative work Big Fat Liar. Like the 2002 comedy-drama, Free Guy has a plagiarist villain, Antwan, owner of Soonami Games, who uses the source code of indie gamers Jodie and her 'platonic' friend Walter 'Keys' (Joe Keery). With the help of Guy, the duo has to find evidence of plagiarism.

RATING 3.5/5

Despite a lack of novelty, Free Guy is gratifying because of its campiness. Its love, science, and emotions may be easily shrugged off as being superficial (which it is), but the film, like Guy, is hopelessly romantic and optimistic. It is also true that the rules the writers set for themselves in, are often broken at the drop of a hat. One moment, NCPs walk about mouthing the same lines over and over again, and in another, the awakened Guy gets deep lines about 'living in the moment' from his security buddy, Buddy (Lil Rel Howery). Yet, you don't mind such inconsistencies when the film offers mindless fun like the brilliant cameos, the slick stunts, and, of course... the Dude character. It wouldn't be surprising if Free Guy doesn't age well. It doesn't go down the rabbit hole of philosophising much about free will or its consequences. It also assumes any new conscious being would be innately good like Guy, and the makers' idea of a world without conflict, is a bit cloying. Yet, when you find yourself laughing at the jokes, you can't argue against the filmmaker achieving what he has set for himself. Free Guy is perhaps the fun experience we have craved to escape reality... just like the video games it is based on.
